By SARAH SHIELDS PFEIFFER

MRS. B. ALDEN THRESHER

Undoubtedly you've had the same experience I've had. You've gone to a civic meeting and, right near the front, you've noticed a short, blonde woman busy with two of her hobbies—people and knitting. Her short, wavy hair is arranged simply. She has a fondness for a touch of pink or white with her conservative black suits. Her hands never drop a stitch while her ears and her mind are aware of everything that is being said.

Furthermore, in a low pitched voice she offers some of the most level-headed advice you are apt to hear at the meeting. And should the question of raising money come up there will be a special reason for listening to her suggestions. For Irene Kattwinkel Thresher has probably participated in more money raising campaigns than any woman in Newton!

Yet, by her own declaration, the most interesting and worthwhile job she has held did not concern raising money. For the past six years she has represented Ward 5 on the Newton School Committee. She's the only woman among the seven members. "Having four children, I felt the school committee was where I could help most," she explained to me in an early morning interview, the prelude to a typically busy day.

Mrs. Thresher's story really begins back in Stamford, Conn., where she was brought up. She attended the public schools, the Low and Heywood School for Girls and Vassar College. During Vassar days her family moved to West Newton. Romance developed when a college friend asked her brother to call Irene when he came to this city. So it came about that in 1923, two years after graduation days, that Irene married B. Alden Thresher, graduate of Hotchkiss and of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. And after living briefly in Swarthmore, Penn., they returned to Waban when Alden was asked to teach Economics at M. I. T. and was later made Director of Admissions.

The comfortable Thresher home at 667 Chestnut street is the center of a busy life with children, grandchildren, relatives and friends. The oldest child, Naomi, has become Mrs. Daniel M. Colyer and the mother of a little girl. Sonia is now Mrs. Robert A. Weaver and the mother of a little boy. Rosemary and Brainerd Colby Thresher are still attending the Newton schools.

"I love to entertain," says Irene Thresher, "but there's been

Suit Against Senator Lee Is Withdrawn

A discontinuance was filed on March 26 in the Middlesex Superior Court in the $10,000 suit of Marie Louise Chaintre of Brittany against State Senator Richard H. Lee of Church Street, Newton.

Mme. Chaintre, who has been living in Wellesley, charged that she met Lee while he was an American officer in Brittany in 1945 and that they had agreed to undertake a joint business venture involving the sale and exhibition of Breton handicraft in the United States. She alleged that Lee later repudiated the agreement.

According to Samuel P. Sears, counsel for Senator Lee, Mme. Chaintre has signed the following statement:

"As a result of a conference between all concerned I am today discontinuing my suit against Mr. Lee. Although I based my suit on what I believed to be legitimate claims I am now satisfied that they arose from a misunderstanding and I regret that I found it necessary to resort to court procedure. The whole matter is now closed."

"Do you do your own work, Mrs. Thresher?" I asked.

"Usually, but right now we have Tech couple living with us. They share the work. I've always tried to have the family taken care of first. When I had no help at home I limited my outside activities to the hours when the children were busy in school. I didn't like to give them a key and have them come into an empty house."

Such excellent management has left reservoirs of time for club work dear to Irene Thresher's heart. She has raised money for and been president of the Boston Vassar Club, the Boston Branch of the American Asso-

GEORGE A. EDMONDS

Starting Monday, April 5th and continuing through the 23rd of this month the merchants and business men of Newton Corner and the customers who patronize their stores will cooperate in sending 25 boys to camp this summer. Red Cross Reports On Disaster Services

Not only is the City of Newton at large very proud of the connection with the recent Waltham explosion incident, but that experience emphasized the warm regard of everyone for all of you". So read a letter from Hon. Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood to Mr. Charles B. Floyd, Chairman of the Newton Red Cross, regarding the Waltham, Massachusetts, Explosion, or D R 2030 as it is known in Red Cross circles.

The record of volunteer service supplied by the Newton Red Cross for the fifteen day period ending March 21 is an impressive one. 215 Nurses' Aides, Gray Ladies, Staff Aides, Motor Service drivers, Volunteer Service chairmen, and men orderlies (recruited by the Norumbega Council, Boy Scouts of America) gave a total of 2,158 hours. The Wellesley Chapter furnished 442 additional hours. Around the clock these men and women served outstanding numbers in such a finely-rendered program. Those by the Glee Club which called forth the greatest response from the audience were Secrets. The Bell-Man, Po' Ol' Lazarus, Black-Eyed Susie, Grandfather's Clock, Summer Evening, Stout Hearted Men, and Dance, My Comrades, Miss Farnsworth, who sang six numbers was particularly fine in Pace, Tell You, The final song, The Omnipotence, a Schubert-Liszt masterpiece, by the Glee Club, with Miss Farnsworth as soloist, was done superbly. Incidental solos in several numbers by Edgar Randle, Ernest Upham and Ernest Schleicher were excellent. Cecil J. Hall assisted ably at the piano in two numbers; and the accompanists, James Gray for the Glee Club, and Andrew Heath for Miss Farnsworth, were outstanding and played with a restraint and skill that won them many complimentary comments.

Before the concert, arriving guests were greeted in the lobby by the hospitality committee, in charge of co-chairmen Mrs. Elton G. Cushman, Wellesley, and Mrs. Hubert L. Carter, West Newton. Receiving with them were Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Babson, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop G. Dow, Mr. and Mrs. W. Elliott Pratt, Dr. and Mrs. Richard L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Wiswall, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McW. Wolfe and Mr. and Mrs. S. Willard Bridges, Jr., all of Wellesley. The Newton hosts and hostesses included Mr. Hubert L. Carter, Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Clark, Dr. and Mrs. T. Stewart Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Pride, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Railback, Mr. and Mrs. Theron B. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wight.

Miss Maida Flanders and Mrs. Edwin F. Gibbs served as ticket-takers, and during a rush period they were assisted by Mr. John M. Powell and Mr. Paul T. Babson, president and vice-president respectively, of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. The corps of ushers, a group of handsomely gowned Wellesley and Newton young women, directed by Mrs. Paul L. Cummings, of Wellesley and Mrs. Edward W. Pride, West Newton, performed their duties efficiently and graciously.

In addition to the numerous committed members many other prominent people were seen at the concert. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Walker, of Waban, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Chase, West Newton, Mrs. George Fernald, West Newton, Mrs. F. Hopewell Underhill, Newton Centre, and her mother, Mrs. Kelsey, Miss Gertrude Melick, Newton Highlands, Mrs. Roland Gammans, Weston, Mrs. John Correa, Wellesley, Mrs. Alvah Ring, Newtonville, Mrs. J. Merchants—

This is really a two way system which makes it possible for the customers and merchants alike to promote this public spirited endeavor. It is their hope that through the support of this project they will be able to send 25 boys to the Y. M. C. A.'s camp Chickami this summer. 10 boys will go for four weeks and 15 boys will go for two weeks.

Every purchase made in a co-operating store between the 5th and 23rd of April entitles the customer to a vote for the boy of his or her choice. The ten boys receiving the most votes will have the opportunity to go to camp for four weeks and the fifteen runners up will go for a two week period. The boys selected for camp are picked solely by the number of votes received. Everyone making a purchase in one of the participating stores can cast one or more votes depending on the size of the purchase.

Boys are not limited to Newton residents alone. You may select the boy you want if he lives in Newton or anywhere in Greater Boston.

And besides this there is a bonus of one hundred dollars for the person casting the most votes in this three week period.

Be sure to cast your votes, as many as you want . . . for the boy you want to have this healthful and worthwhile vacation.

Evening, April 5th at 8 p. m. You may obtain tickets for this fashion show from Miss Jane Mansfield, BI 4-0999 or from Mrs. Everett Olds, BI 4-5309.

All proceeds from this fashion show will go to the Cardiac Fund and the Peabody Home of Crippled Children.

anywhere from two to fifteen hours at a stretch.

The orderlies, some of those who covered the disaster desk at the hospital, were independent volunteers who were stirred by this local tragedy and willingly gave time to be of help. Mrs. Charles McDowell of Auburndale was responsible for lining up this desk staff. Another 80 hours were given by the disaster chairman and public information chairman, and the Red Cross paid staff devoted some 300 hours to disaster services during the same two weeks.

According to Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton, Director of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, of the seventeen patients admitted, there was one death within 48 hours and six have been discharged. One has since been readmitted. Of the ten patients remaining in the hospital, most are progressing very well, with many now ambulant. Occupational therapy has been started as well as physiotherapy, particularly for hand burns. Of the two remaining on the danger list, one is still desperately sick but has shown some improvement.

In a letter received by Mr. Floyd, Dr. Hamilton wrote as follows: "By helping to obtain personnel, obtaining and sending for supplies and equipment, and by taking over completely the care of relatives and friends of the injured, you left us free to devote all our attention to the care of the patients. The results obtained to date speak for the work that was done. I should like, however, to express my thanks to you and through you to all the allied chapters and agencies which cooperated so fully to render service to the patients, their families, and friends."

Still other expressions of gratitude to the local Red Cross have been coming in from individuals who realize what it means in a

Furthermore heavy drains continue on disaster reserves. It is most important that these be maintained in sufficient amount to meet all emergencies.

The campaign office at 21 Foster street, Newtonville, under the supervision of Mrs. Henry T. Patch, will remain open into April to receive late returns, and village chairmen will continue to make reports. Citizens who have not been contacted may feel free to mail or take their gifts to the Aid's office to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

One gift mailed in from a resident of Newton Centre was accompanied by the following note: "I wish this contribution might be much larger. My son was in the Bar Harbor fire and nearly lost his life although his home was saved. From his experience at that time and during his five years in the Army, we know the tremendous value of our Red Cross."

Newton The Garden City?

It was with mixed feelings that we published last week an appeal by Harlan W. Kingsbury, Chief Sanitary Officer of the Health Department for all citizens of Newton to clear their yards and cellars of garbage and trash that has accumulated during the winter. We were pleased to be able to bring such a vital need for clean-up before the people yet we deplored the fact that such a notice should be necessary.

Why is it that store keepers and home owners are willing to desecrate the beauty of their community and run the risk of disease by letting such rubbish and litter collect? Surely none can fail to see that such debris will infest the city with rats and vermin which are well known disease carriers.

Right now, Newton, The Garden City has all the ear marks of a garden that has not been cleared after the fall harvest nor made ready for spring planting. Just as it is unsightly and not in the tradition of good husbandry to leave vegetables and plant foliage to rot so it is damaging to the good looks and can be damaging to the health of all Newton citizens to let this situation continue.

Let's all get busy and make this clean up a city-wide affair. Let's keep Newton the garden city which has been the pride of all residents for so many years.

A Major Campaign Issue

There's a major campaign issue in the Truman Administration's proclaimed negligence of National Defense.

Republican leaders are emphasizing the confusion and lack of planning by the Administration's defense establishment which brought the nation to still another crisis.

Congress is ranked because in January it appropriated all the funds for our military establishment that the Administration requested. Even so, its leaders were then not satisfied that the people were receiving a dollar's worth of every dollar spent. So the Congressional Aviation Policy Board was created and sought out the truth. Senator Owen D. Brewster (R-Me.) was appointed Chairman; and Rep. Carl Hinshaw (R-Cal.) Vice Chairman.

On March 1—after six months of investigation—the Board reported that the entire military establishment was enmeshed in controversy over an over-all plan for adequate defense: that because of petty jealousies and endless squabbling among the three services the Unification Act was just a farce. Unification, which had been enacted to eliminate costly duplication, had instead—under Executive manhandling—produced triplication.

The Board demanded that Mr. Truman act immediately to settle the conflict within the services.

Defense Secretary Forrestal left forthwith for Key West, Florida, to confer with high-ranking Admirals and Generals. On his return to Washington he reported at once to the President. On March 17 the President addressed a joint session of Congress urging a strengthening of National Defense, restoration of the draft and the adoption of universal military training.

This message came just 2½ months after the President had submitted his military budget estimate to the Congress. He made no reference to the need for air power expansion and certainly made no mention of the conflict within the military establishment.

But the alert Congress, which had prodded the defense question to prominence in the first place, had no intention of turning off the steam. Appropriate committees are pressing their demands for unified plan of action, along with a concise spelling-out of defense requirements—the two very vital points which Congress, and everyone, mightily missed in the President's message.

So, it is heartening to see Congress again cut through the smoke of another Administration "crisis." Congressional pressures which shoot loose from the close-mouthed State Department the intent, cost and application of the European Recovery Plan, are now forcing the Administration to tell the Nation the truth about its defenses.

A New York exporter recently found a market for potatoes in South America. Through ordinary channels he could buy them at $2.55 a hundredweight. But the government was glad to sell them at $1.75 a hundredweight out of its surplus stocks, even though the potatoes had been purchased at the support price of $2.55. Of course, the man bought from the government, and of course, the taxpayers paid the difference.—New York Daily News

Politics With Color

by P. W. C.

State Legislature

There is a good deal of important legislation pending in our state legislature. Unfortunately, the average citizen knows little, if anything, about what goes on up on Beacon Hill until it is all over. The Boston papers, for example, will write an important editorial a day or two before there is to be a vitally-important hearing on some bill and will urge their readers to show up and participate. As a result, only those who are in the two branches of the Legislature or who are in daily touch with them are able to plan ahead and attend the hearing. Consequently, I am asking our Representatives if they will make an effort to get the Boston papers to print the calendar for each week on Monday morning, or as soon as it is in shape to be published.

I bring this matter up this week on account of a very fine editorial in the Boston Herald a few days ago in connection with the proposal to spend $100,000,000 on the highways of Massachusetts. As I recall it, this editorial appeared the day before the hearing. What a pity that it could not have been read by the Herald's vast army of readers in ample season to make plans to visit Beacon Hill on that day.

This brings me to another thought which must disturb all of us. If and when this legislation passes and this huge appropriation is made, it seems likely that there will be considerable difficulty in carrying out the detailed plans of the commission which has given this problem such long and intensive study. In passing, your columnist would like to add his word of praise for the arduous work of Senator Edward W. Staves of Southbridge, who has shown a truly remarkable aptitude for viewing this tremendous undertaking objectively and without the slightest prejudice. Under ordinary circumstances, as has been pointed out elsewhere recently, a legislator from the western part of the state might be expected to object to a program which involved the expenditure of such a large part of the entire appropriation in our metropolitan area. (About two fifths, so they say.)

Now for the disturbing thought. A portion of this master plan for repairing and adding to our highways all over the state calls for a so-called belt-line which would, if I am correctly informed, connect two parallel major highways. Under the present blueprint this belt-line would cut across the town of Brookline in a manner which appears to greatly upset many of the people living in that area. This is quite understandable, especially if too many houses are to be torn down and if the beauty of the town as a whole is to be substantially marred. However, and this is the point to stress, what chance will we ever have to work out a master highway plan if ALL towns and cities directly affected by this belt-line would, if I am correctly informed, connect two parallel major highways. DINING with JANE and BILL

Breakfast: Friday, April 2nd
Bill—Say, what a heavenly whiff, I just got coming down the stairs. What are you baking at this hour?

Jane—Something simple to make. Sit right down and have some. Are you ready for breakfast?

Bill—And how! I was half-starved when I got up this morning. Spring sure gives you an appetite—or maybe it's that wonderful cooking that's going on. What is it?

Jane—Oh, here's the surprise—Steaming hot Bran Muffins—have one!

Bill—My, these are good, so tasty . . . and the raisins . . .

Jane—Yes. The raisins add food value and flavor.

Jane—Just got it yesterday Bill, over the Newton Nutrition Centers' regular weekly program, with the nutritionists, Marge and Marie. They broadcast every Thursday morning at 11:30 over Station WCRB, 1330 on the dial.

Bill—Oh isn't that wonderful, you'd better listen in every week. What's in these muffins anyway, that makes them taste so good?

Jane—Molasses, all-bran, milk and . . . no wonder they contain so much iron, and vitamins.

Bill—Ah, let's have these more often, I love them.

Announcement has been made of the opening this summer of a day camp for boys from eight through twelve years of age at the Charles River School in Dover, under the direction of Wm. Bradford Gove II, B.S. in Ed., Assistant Principal of the school.

The Charles River Day Camp will operate on a five days a week basis from July first through August thirty-first, and will use the playgrounds, gymnasium, craft shop, lunch room, and locker facilities of the school. maker the first afternoon; and an electric food mixer—beautiful floor lamp and an electric casserole on the second afternoon.

Evenings too, offer a program of appeal to both men and women. At 8 p.m. there's a lecture on television and the latest information about WBZ-TV, Boston's soon-to-be completed first television broadcasting station. Lynn Morrow and Dallas P. Wyant, representatives of the Sales Promotion Department of WBZ, will alternate each evening in presenting this interesting and timely subject and will tell how soon television programs may be expected in Newton.

Between these two unusual programs there will be ample opportunity for those attending to look at all the numerous exhibits of electric home appliances—everything from the all-electric kitchen to the complete electric laundry is on display. Many of these appliances are operated and explained by competent demonstrators and Newton electrical dealers.

Climaxing the final day will be the presentation of a beautiful General Electric home freezer. This award will be made after the evening program, from registration cards of those who have attended the Fair.

Nonantum Folk
To Sponsor
Benefit Dance

An old-time get-together benefit dance and vaudeville show will be presented Tuesday, April 6, at 8 p.m., at St. Jean the Evangelist School Hall, 252 Watertown street, Newton, sponsored by the Nonantum Neighborhood Five. The committee states that the show will have loads of tradition with it and a resume of Nonantum in the past will be presented in the form of an all-out neighborhood attendance and a revival of a minstrel scene, plus the good fellowship and help a neighbor policy which one must have to be a Nonantumite. Former Nonantum folk from distant towns have assured the committee that they will be present.

Immediately following the cooking classes, Edison Home economists take a few extra minutes to explain the advantages of an all electric laundry showing how the family's weekly laundering now becomes a matter of a few hours, instead of days—all because of the automatic electric washer, automatic dryer and electric ironer.

After each class there are more surprises. The delicious cooked food is given away, but more than this, are the prize awards of useful electrical appliances—a two-slice automatic toaster—an electric iron and a coffee

THE CLAPPER COMPANY BUILDING at 1121 Washington street, West Newton.

PLAN OF THE CLAPPER CO. PLANT—Shaded area is newly acquired land which will be used for parking.

Clapper Co., West Newton Buys Adjoining Land to Provide Parking

Chamber of Commerce Advocates Off Street Parking As Good Investment

The Newton Chamber of Commerce has for years been calling attention to the need for Off Street Parking areas both Municipal and Privately owned. Off Street Parking areas are an investment—not an expense.

They are an investment for the City or the property owners for several reasons—shoppers are going to trade in those areas where he or she can find a parking space, that means more business for the stores, more business means better rents for store property which in turn means more taxes for the City. The reverse of the above means less business, less rents, less taxes.

The City has provided parking areas in several shopping centers—they soon will build a large centrally located area in another shopping area—is this all to the good, but there are still several areas that badly need off street parking. Retail business has been moving into the suburbs for the past few years—it has greatly accelerated since the War and will continue to do so. For Newton to take advantage of its growth in population, and its increase in retail business, it will need to have sufficient Off Street Parking in all the shopping areas—in addition will require parking meters to insure space for curb parking for a period of one hour or less. There is still another reason why Newton should provide sufficient parking in all business areas as rapidly as possible—that reason is the creation of shopping districts that soon will be springing up all over the Greater Boston area, one not far removed from Newton—they will provide ample parking and will draw shoppers from surrounding crowded areas—we will need to make it convenient and easy to shop at home if we are to compete with this kind of a development.

In 1941 Auto Registrations in Newton were 29,233—with our population growing we will when cars become plentiful have a registration of well over 33,000—just another reason why parking spaces are a necessity.

It came to our attention several weeks ago that one of our successful businesses, The Clapper Company of West Newton, are not only thinking of the present, but are looking ahead to that time when it will be necessary to provide parking as it will be to provide a showroom, purchased a lot of land adjoining their present property for a parking area large enough for present and future needs; they realize that the time is not far distant when Washington street from Newton Corner to West Newton will be all zoned for business, and that parking at their present location will be as difficult as elsewhere.

The first two steps now requested of the city by the School Committee include the projects of greatest urgency. The kinder-

28 Newton M.D.'s Donate Disaster Fees To Hosp. Bldg. Fund

In a magnanimous gesture symbolizing the acute need for expanding Newton-Wellesley Hospital, the physicians who treated blast victims there during the Waltham explosion emergency of March 6 have agreed unanimously to donate their fees to the hospital's Building Fund, it was disclosed this week.

This decision of the 28 medical men, desirous of matching, with their contributions, the emergency service of hospital personnel and volunteers "who gave so freely of their time" was reported by Dr. Richard I. Smith, chief of surgical service. Physicians and others on the hospital working force labored without sleep during the disaster to attend 26 badly burned and injured, who arrived at the already overloaded institution suddenly in the night.

Doctors agreed on the group donation, the chief surgeon said, "in order to more clearly point out their realization of the existing need for further hospital facilities." Dr. Smith, who is chairman of the executive committee of the medical staff, made the announcement at a staff meeting.

Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton, director of Newton-Wellesley Hospital, commended the emergency performance of staff physicians who, he said, "gave prompt and effective treatment despite space limitations of the undersized community hospital." Because of the overflow of patients, it had been necessary to clear the hospital's lecture room for use as an accident ward.

Formal presentation of fees, received from the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company for the care of these patients, will be made to the hospital's Building Fund at an early date. Newton-Wellesley Hospital is a member agency of the Newton Community Chest.

5-6. Replacement of the Pierce School in West Newton by a new building at the junction of Temple and Berkely streets and containing a kindergarten, seven classrooms, auditorium and gymnasium.

4. Replacement of the Clafin School in Newtonville, by a new building located on or near Lowell Avenue and containing a kindergarten, seven classrooms, auditorium and gymnasium.

5-6. Replacement of Mason, Rice and Bowen Schools, Newton Centre, by two new buildings, one to be located on the Newton Centre playground and the other on the Bowen School playground. Each building is to contain a kindergarten, 12 to 14 classrooms, auditorium and gymnasium. The requested projects cover the first two-step of a proposed five-step building program calling for a total of 17 projects. This construction will include six additions, seven replacements and four buildings to be erected in newly created school districts.

In 1937 a special committee of the Board of Aldermen and Newton School Committee recommended a ten-year building program consisting of eight school building projects. Ordinarily this program would have been completed by 1947 but, due to the war, only two buildings were constructed—the Franklin and Lincoln-Elliot elementary schools.

The students are still returning home, and going back to college, among the more recent ones we have noticed are Richard Cutler from Dartmouth college and Philip Fox from Wesleyan, who both live on Sargent Park. Also Miss Jean and Sarah Nichols, daughters of Mrs. W. Nichols of Richardson street. Jean is a senior at Wellesley, and Sarah a freshman.

Miss Ann Field, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Fred Field of 36 Fairmont street, has just returned to Bryn Mawr college where she is majoring in mathematics. When school closes she and one of her college chums are planning to drive out to California for the summer.

Cient parking for the stores will be as essential as the store building itself.

In 1941 Auto Registrations in Newton were 29,233—with our population growing we will when cars become plentiful have a registration of well over 33,000—just another reason why parking spaces are a necessity.

3. ACCESSIBILITY—The ultimate elementary school plant is to provide elementary schools within one-half mile walking distance for nearly all elementary school children wherever they may reside in the city.

4. ECONOMY—The wasteful oversupply of elementary schools on the north side of the city will be reduced, and on the south side of the city buildings will be provided according to a plan which will prohibit wasteful duplication in school districts where the population increases.

Among the characteristics of a good city are the quality and quantity of education provided for its children. Good schools mean well planned programs of education, a strong well-trained professional staff, and a safe,

MAP OF NEWTON

Published by
R. I. POLK & CO.
Boston, Mass.
1948

In this map is shown Newton's ultimate elementary school plant. It will cover all Newton residential areas; it will reduce the number of buildings in the north side of the city; and will include ultimately 23 elementary school buildings. This number of buildings is only two more than are used today, and yet it guarantees a school within easy access to every child who may live in Newton at any future time.

This map shows by the overlapping circles that many buildings in the northern part of the city are too close together. In other words, there are too many buildings. It shows also the obsolete locations, where children live on only one side of the school, or where the school is surrounded by heavily travelled streets. Most important of all, it shows graphically the large areas without schools.

scientifically-planned school plant south of its present location.

Having such a school system the city attracts to it those substantial citizens who seek the best in education for their children. Newton has, in the past, been attractive to this type of citizen.

Besides the additions and replacements for the elementary schools, there are two other questions which have been widely discussed and under consideration by the School Committee. The first is the question of the Junior High Schools. If the school system as a whole is to be dealt with the condition of the existing Junior High Schools must not be overlooked.

Regardless of eventual population growth, the ultimate plant for the junior high schools should consist of not more than five buildings. There are now four junior high schools, which number should be adequate for a few years. Eventually the fifth junior high school will be needed for the Oak Hill section of the city; and the Bigelow, the oldest junior high building, will need to be relocated on a site to the ing auto and bus traffic of high school, trade school, and junior college; it will provide a south high school within walking distance of hundreds of youngsters who now must be transported to school.

This plan as outlined above is comprehensive and well thought out and it is hoped that it will be acted upon by the city and receive the whole hearted approval of all residents of Newton.

Miss Albright in Leading Roll In "Ice Chips"

On Friday and Saturday evenings, April 9 and 10, at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium the curtain will rise on that quaint living-room in Brooklyn where the milk of human kindness mingles with the poisoned wine. If you enjoy laughter, be sure to see "Arsenic and Old Lace" presented by the Players and directed by Mr. Robert Reed. The cast consists of Maude Higgins, Edwin Terkelsen, Lendell Layman, Oakie Harkins, Charles McKenzie, Mary Gray, Pat Donovan, Ernest Clark, Eric Kermath, Edmund Donovan, Lester York, Horace Hills, Clifford Beecher, and Arnold Rood. Helen Ufford is prompter.

Another in the series of delightful lounge bridges will be held the last of April under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Paul Monroe and Mrs. Walter Engel. Last month's winners were Mrs. John Pfeiffer, Mrs. Charles Cowley, Jr., and Mrs. Harold Ingham of Waltham. Dessert and coffee will be served at 1:30 p.m.

Wednesday, April 14 a dinner and bridge will be held at the clubhouse, Mrs. J. Victor Jordan and Mrs. Willis Foss are in charge of reservations.

The Men's Bowling League ended the season with a banquet for members and their wives at the University Club. Captain Ed Gray reports Auburndale finished 4th in the league. The two highest scorers for the year were Lester York and Edward Gray. Lester York further distinguished himself by walking off with the highest individual score at the roll-off following the banquet.

In the mixed bowling tournament the Lunkheads are forging ahead. Helen Betten, Ruth Bergstedt, Jack Kennedy, Art Read, and George Wrye are on the team.

The last formal dance of the season will be held Saturday, April 24. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson are in charge of reservations. Paul Ambler's orchestra will play for dancing, following a social hour in the lounge.

Mrs. Hayward hopes to bring former members of the D. A. R. back into the Society, those members who dropped out because of their hearing.

Miss Albright, popular young daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Holton Albright of 990 Center St., Newton Centre, will skate a leading role in The Boston Skating Clubs annual production, "Ice Chips" of 1948, that will play the Boston Arena April 9-10 and 11.

Miss Albright will be presented as the feature attraction of one of the big production numbers that make up the show. She will skate her solo in a Scottish number, temporarily named "Kilts".

Tenley, in her fourth year of skating, already boasts several titles. She is the current New England Ladies Junior Figure Skating Champion and was runner up for the Eastern Junior title. She is attending Beaver School at the present time.

Aside from Miss Albright, several other champions have been invited to skate in the show.

Leading figure, of course, is Dick Bowlin, World and Olympic Champion who will make his first American appearance in the Boston Arena since capturing his honors.

He will be accompanied with Miss Gretchen Merrill of Boston five times United States Senior Ladies Champion, Miss Margaret Grant of St. Paul, the popular McKellen Brothers, late of the Ice Follies, Douglas Duffy, and the National Pair Champions, Miss Yvonne Sherman and Mr. Robert Swanning, complete the feature attractions.

More than two hundred skaters will take part in the show. Mr. Bud Wilson, The Skating Club president, is in charge of production and is being assisted by Miss Shirley Bowman, Ice Follies star. Music will be furnished by Chappy Arnold.

On Sunday, May 2 at 7:30 p.m. the Auburndale Club Players will present a one-act play, "Skin Deep". Mrs. Albert Terkelsen will preside at the annual meeting following the play. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Lendell Layman, Mrs. Robert Woods, and Mrs. Willis Foss.

The Indians and wolves are gone, thank goodness, and now there is nothing to kill us but cars.—Minneapolis Star.

Auburndale Woman's Club, Inc.

"History has proved that it is women's influence behind most of the reforms that have been brought about in the world," said Mrs. Max Ulin speaking Tuesday afternoon before the Auburndale Woman's Club on the subject, "Today's Woman—Never too young not too old." Mrs. Ulin is well known for her work on International Relations and as an officer in the Mass. State Federation of Women's Clubs, and also as a social lecturer.

"The world is changing, she said, "but women are not content to drift along with the tide. They want to do something to direct the course of these changes. Women always seem to see a need for improvement in conditions long before men. And when reforms finally come about, in large part through women's influence, men just to brag about it saying, 'Just see how progressive we are'."

"How many women sat on the sidelines during the war?" said Mrs. Ulin. "They wanted to do something. So they went into the factories, war plants, took over men's jobs, as their contribution during a time of stress. Most of us had dreams of the post-war world. Then would be a time for relaxation, with helicopters for shopping, every mechanical gadget to make work lighter. But what has happened?

"The world did not settle back on an even keel," continued Mrs. Ulin. "It is a changing world, and women want to do something to direct the course of these changes. A man said recently, 'One reason women have such clean minds is because they change them so often.' This is not true," says Mrs. Ulin. "It is because women are so adaptable. Women are always willing to try something to see if it can't be better. Don't we start right in the living room and rearrange the furniture to see if a better effect can't be achieved? And aren't men always grumbling about it? But they like the result, once accomplished. And so it is with the world.

"A very intelligent mother very early becomes interested in the community, primarily because of her children's activities.

The most orderly homes are those of busy women. They regulate themselves, their time and their households and have time for outside interests. What progress from the days when women were tucked away with the stoves.

"Apparently as an aftermath of war, there swept across the country a tidal wave of hate for those different—in race, color, creed. There is a tremendous job for women to do here in the field of understanding those different from ourselves. We have to open our minds. As a Chinese diplomat once said in speaking of race hatreds, 'It is 90 per cent temper and 10 per cent color.'

"There was never a time when there was more or a need for women to build bridges of understanding that will pull down these hatreds that would tear us apart. It is in the field of human relations, of better understanding, that women can make their greatest contribution, and it is there that women are never too young nor too old to do their part."

Mrs. Darragh L. Higgins presided at the business meeting preceding the talk. She introduced Mrs. Harvey E. Greenwood, president of the Mass. State Federation of Women's Clubs, who brought best wishes and told about the Memorial Scholarship Fund. This is a plan to memorialize departed presidents of the Federation through scholarships to young people. It was hoped to raise $50,000 for this purpose by 1950.

Mrs. Paul Tardivel, Literature Chairman, spoke of their joint meeting with the International Relations Committee on Friday, April 2, at 2 p.m. in the Woman's Club room.

NEWTON COUNCIL OF CHURCHES

A Series of Sermons by Newton Minister

"THE DIMENSIONS OF THE CHRISTIAN LIFE"

Sermon by
The Rev. Burton Boutwell Smith
Minister of the First Methodist of Newton

A prominent church leader recently made a tour of the country, visiting ministers and churches of his denomination and others as well. His conclusion was that many of our leaders have grown petty, having lost their broad perspectives and broad ideas as to what makes up a Christian and what constitutes Christianity.

Now what is true of Christian leaders, in many instances, is also true of us all—our souls need to be restored to their true dimensions as children of Almighty God.

God sets before us an open door—and we are to serve Him in the spirit of the Christ. God has intended that we move forward, Lord.

climb higher and claim the best we know through Christ our Lord.

The Psalmist has a word which is needed by most folks today. He felt confined in spirit—his soul was troubled because of his adversaries and adversities—he was becoming cynical and he felt like giving up! "And thou hast not shut me up into the hand of the enemy; thou hast set my feet in a large place." (Psalm 31:8).

Martin Luther said that this psalm is a description of Christ and His saints who are plagued their lives long for the sake of the Word of God, yet are delivered by God from them all and are comforted.

The first dimension of the Christian life is that of inward quality—personal stature.

To be a Christian is not primarily doing something; rather, it's a matter of being someone.

Too many of us have sought our own way—we have utterly failed to follow the only Way—even Jesus Christ.

God has intended us for large breadth. We are created for companionship with God the Father through Christ the Son. With Christ there were no ordinary men—He made men straighten up and realize their highest and best selves. Those early Christians were joyous—they were invincible—they could feel and say, "Now are we the sons of God."

This hour of history calls for great souls, great spirits—such men must come from the church of the Living God.

Easter Sunday our churches were crowded and thronged with people—this coming Sunday we look around and wonder where all the people are!

Let me remind you that the first dimension of the Christian life is that of inward quality. These who flock to the fold of the Shepherd at Easter-time do not possess this inner quality—they are fickle, they fit from place to place and cannot be depended upon!

Great souls grow through sacrifice and service and storm and trial, the great Christian, once met a beggar who wished him good day; "Every day is a good day to me," was his reply. . . . "If the sun shines, I'm glad; if the clouds rain, I bless God." The beggar replied, "Who are you?" Tauler replied, "I am a king." To which the beggar said, "Where is your kingdom?" And Tauler replied, "In my heart." This story went all over Europe in the Middle Ages. Simply because it told of the possibilities of the life of Christian faith—of having nothing and yet possessing all things worth having in life!

Second: The next dimension of the Christian life is the past. God has given us a great and rich heritage—we are surrounded by a "cloud of witnesses." These ancient landmarks, these ancient servants should make men aware of the fact that Almighty God has always stood by those who were willing to stand by Him. Nothing is perhaps so stabilizing as a good look at Christian history; it gives us the sense of belonging to something that is going on forevermore. Through the lessons learned from the past we may move forward to achieve new heights for the Master in the days which lie ahead.

A third dimension is that of breadth. The real Christian lives in His Father's world and is interested in all peoples, all places and all conditions of mankind. Perhaps one of the reasons why the world is in this present crisis is that Christians have been too narrow in their outlook, outreach—to too circumscribed in their perspective!

We are Brothers Under God. This simply can't be dodged any longer. We Are Our Brother's Keeper. There's no place for the narrow-minded and the world-withdrawing person in the Kingdom of God and of His Christ to-damn.

In the story of the Lost Chord, the organist allowed his fingers to wander idly over the noisy keys, when of a sudden a chord was struck that sounded like a mighty AMEN. Life is like that, noisy and casual, until the Great Chord is heard—then harmony comes and life is made a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Reading from left to right: "Bob" Duncan and his wife; Mrs. Edith Duncan McMurphy; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Duncan; Lyn R. Lyon, and A. C. Jones.

Farewell Party for Patrick J. Duncan

The fourth dimension of the Christian life is that of the future. Our Gospel is not for the past, not for the present alone—but for the future as well. One of the supremely great and glorious verses in all the Scriptures is—"Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today and forevermore."

On this first Sunday after Easter we all rejoice with countless millions of believers that Christ is Risen, that a new force is at work in the world—sacrificial love—the cross has been vindicated—Christ lives—it was Easter that made the church, it was Easter that made eternal hope possible for all mankind.

In Jesus Christ are the issues of the future—without Him there can be no future. Surely, the Christian stands in a large place, he frequents the green pastures, his life is made noble by his kinship with the eternal God. His life has a rich quality of inward grace and peace; and historical rootage in a great and holy tradition; a great universality and breadth of vision; and an eternal perspective, "thanks be to God for His unspeakable Gift of the Christ."

A brief address outlining Mr. Duncan's career with the Company was made by Mr. L. R. Lyon, Metro Boston District Manager. After this Mr. A. C. Jones, the Division Sales Manager, also elaborated on his service record especially holding him up to the younger salesmen as one whom they would do well to take as an outstanding example.

people of the highest calibre and ability and a man who reflects credit upon his employers as well as his family and friends.

Mr. Duncan plans to leave for Florida with his family for an extended vacation before seeking other fields to conquer. His many friends wish him continued health and happiness in his retirement.

Newton Community Club

One of the fine things about this club is the fact that it is very community minded, and there are many things undertaken by its members that we do not always hear about, but this is one. A short time ago Mrs. Ronald Jones, Mrs. Carlton Shaw and Mrs. Mason Stone, undertook to renovate the Rest room of the staff of the Newton Library, they made over drapes for the windows, couch cover and pillows, had the lockers all painted white, a new table and chairs for the staff to enjoy their lunch on, and many little touches, which only a woman can put into a room. The Library would like to take this opportunity of thanking these ladies and others who took such an interest and worked so hard to make an unattractive room, very attractive and restful.

Pity the cop. If he shoots first, he is a brute or a coward; if he doesn't he is a dumb cluck or a corpse — Detroit Free Press.

SCHOOLBOY SPORTS

By WALLY STRATHERN, JR.

BASEBALL

Coach Howard Ferguson's massive rebuilding program at the high school is under way with all brilliance that was expected. Ferguson has taken a relatively inexperienced group of boys and molded them into a ball club that may not reach state championship ability but will be building a strong experienced club for next year.

Practice sessions have moved out into the open and are taking the form of scrub games. This gave eighteen men the chance to work at once while others fill in here and there. The mound duties are being shared by Ralph Fox, Joe McCusker, Ed Frackman, and Charlie Rogers. These moundsmen all have the stuff to be varsity pitchers but none have had previous experience with varieties of years before.

FOOTBALL !!!

NO, WE'RE NOT CRAZY

Football is here again, but this time in the form of spring practice. Head Mentor Warren Huston is at the helm again and is giving the candidates training that will, I know, prove invaluable next fall.

The club has been learning plays and, most important of all is getting a fine knack of ball handling. Thus far, the practice has been held in the gym, where passing has been stinted but with outdoor practice coming up we'll be able to see next year's prospects.

TRACK

Just a track team note . . . Harry Alexander, ace hurdler for the Newton track team has been elected captain for this year's outdoor squad. Candidates tried out for the team last Monday and coaches Considine, Gallagher, and Boyle went into a conference to decide the possibilities. With most of the boys from indoor track going to participate on the cinder things are going to look pretty bright for the team.

Crimes in urban areas declined 5.1 per cent with decreases being recorded for the crimes of auto theft 20.7 per cent, negligent manslaughter 8.9 per cent, murder 5.9 per cent, robbery 5.5 per cent, burglary 3.7 per cent, and larceny 2.3 per cent. In urban areas the crimes of aggravated assault increased 3.3 per cent and rape 2.9 per cent.

Elks Celebrate 80 Years Of Benevolent Activities

L. A. Lewis, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, dedicating the plaque.

Recent Engagements

During February Lafayette A. Lewis, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, in the presence of 15 Past Grand Exalted Rulers from all parts of the country, placed a bronze plaque on the ancient and famous old building, formerly known as Military Hall, at 193 Bowery, New York City, according to word received by Nicholas Veduocchio, Exalted Ruler of Newton Lodge No. 1327. Lewis' action signaled the 80th birthday of a vast fraternal welfare organization which has grown from 15 New York actors to its present membership of 950,000 public spirited men with 1478 Elk Lodges scattered through every state in the Union.

It was on February 16, 1868, that a group of actors, headed by an Englishman, Charles A. Vivian, organized the first Elk Lodge, New York "Mother Lodge" No. 1 in Military Hall and, with no political, commercial or religious interests, started the great order which has raised among its own membership and disbursed for countless charitable purposes more than eighty million dollars in addition to untold additional sums spent by local lodges. The aims of the founders are those followed by the Elks today. As stated on the plaque they are "to inculcate the principles of charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity and to quicken the spirit of American patriotism."

Constant attention to disabled war veterans in 162 hospitals in all 48 states, the care of crippled children, the awarding of 100 college scholarships annually to worthy but financially limited high school students, the sponsoring and financing of hundreds of troops of Boy Scouts, especially in underprivileged neighborhoods and largely with Elk Wreath veterans acting as Scout leaders, Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, medical attention and dozens of other benefits to the local needy, are all parts of the Elks work, in addition to assisting the U. S. Army and Navy in securing recruits for our peacetime forces.

During World War II the Elks established more than 400 schools throughout the country through which thousands of young men were enabled to qualify for the U. S. Army Aviation Cadet Courses. In addition the Order maintained 155 fraternal centers near military establishments for the comfort and entertainment of Allied military personnel, recruited more than 100,000 ground crew men for the Air Forces, 97,000 Navy Seabees, 36,000 Army Engineers, and recruited enough nurses to meet the requirements of the Veterans Administration, gave a million books to the Merchant Marine, produced and distributed 160,000 pairs of bed slippers to hospitalized soldiers, shipped millions of cigarettes monthly to troops overseas and performed scores of other useful tasks.

Since Pearl Harbor the Elks have grown from 400,000 to their present membership. A large percentage of the new members are veterans who saw the work the Elks did during the war and want to participate in the peacetime benevolence of the Order.

"Where does the money go?"

Of course, it's exasperating to find all your money gone "just a few days after payday" . . . to wonder (and argue) where it all went.

The simplest way to avoid this exasperation is to make sure that you spend a little less than you earn. You can make sure of that by opening a savings account and depositing a little money every payday before you do any spending.

Naturally, the place for your Savings Account is this sound, long-established Mutual Savings Bank where all deposits are insured in full under State law.

NORUMBEGA COUNCIL, INC., BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA
A RED FEATHER AGENCY

General Dwight D. Eisenhower has accepted membership on the National Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America, it was announced Monday of this week by Amory Houghton, President of the organization.

An advocate of Scouting over the years, General Eisenhower supported a drive for wastepaper conducted by the Boy Scouts throughout the nation during the last year of the war. By collecting 318,000 tons of paper in two months 299,936 Scouts qualified for the General Eisenhower-Boy Scout Wastepaper Campaign medal. A gold replica of it was presented to him in Washington in December 1945. Norumbega Council Scouts collected 1,193,833 lbs of waste paper and 200 Scouts received the Eisenhower award.

"The Boy Scout Movement merits the unstinted support of every American who wants to make this country and his world a better place in which to live," General Eisenhower said when he received his medal. "Its emphasis on community service and tolerance and world friendship promotes a speedier attainment of the enduring peace among men for which we all strive."

"By developing among its members both a spirit of sturdiness, self-reliance and a realization of the need for cooperative effort in every major enterprise, the Movement is a prime force in preparing tomorrow's men for their duty to themselves, their country and their world."

"Here in the United States the Boy Scouts of America has accomplished much in its years of service. But today, more than ever before, we need expansion of its membership and influence."

In May 1946, the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America conferred upon General Eisenhower the Award of the Silver Buffalo "for distinguished service to boyhood." It is Scouting's highest award for national or international service.

Registered during the past week at Scout Headquarters were the following Scouts: Richard Beaven, Roger Hogsett, C. W. Taylor, Arthur Quebec, Gates Odence, Stuart Demens, John Coleman, Richard Lesser, Richard Gilman, Robert Shapiro. The following Cubs registered during the past week: Robert Purinton and Andrew Morrison. Mr. Forest Mirick registered as a Troop Committeeman for Troop 4B.

ROY S. EDWARDS

Deeply tanned from six weeks vacation in Cocoa, Fla., Roy Edwards sat down one recent afternoon to answer questions I had long wanted to ask. His name is connected with so many civic groups that he is one of our best known and hardest workers. I wondered how these numerous contributions of his energy left time for his successful business as president of the Roy S. Edwards, Inc., lumber business at 29 Crafts Street, Newtonville.

Mr. Edwards is a small, neat man with graying hair, warm smile and twinkling eyes behind gold rimmed spectacles. He prefers dark, conservative business suits with a touch of color in Argyle socks. His manner of speaking is agreeable and unhurried. And you feel that he takes the measure of people he meets and wins their cooperation with his direct friendliness.

His civic-mindedness must have come down directly from the example set by his father in Halifax, Canada. Of Scotch-Welsh descent, Roy has a twin sister, two brothers and another sister. His 83-year-old mother, now widowed, continues to live in Halifax near the rest of her family. Every summer Roy goes "back home" for a visit with them. In a section well populated with people of Scotch descent, his mother is well known as a relative of Sir Walter Scott.

Following graduation from high school and the Maritime Business College in Halifax, Roy Edwards served in the Canadian army over five years at the time of World War I. Forty two months of this time he spent in France and Belgium as a combat officer. The year after the war he was commandant of a prisoner of war camp in Nova Scotia. Leon Trotsky was among the prisoners, he recalls.

But war had taken a physical toll. Due to wounds and gas attacks, a subsequent brain operation was necessary which has left a slight lameness in his left leg.

After his release from military service in 1919, Mr. Edwards studied business administration in night school at Boston University. While there he met an attractive dark-haired nurse from New Brunswick, who was taking part in a college pageant. Mary Clancy had served with the 1st Harvard Medical Unit in the war. She had also worked Much interest was displayed by Committee members at the Chairman's meeting and coffee which was held Tuesday A.M. at the Newton Centre Woman's Club, when new plans were discussed by Miss Rose E. Trainor, Director of Sales of the Massachusetts State Department for the Blind. Many new articles will be on sale this year, and as last year's total reached the impressive figure of $2835.65, it is hoped that we will surpass that figure this year.

By a vote of 17 to 3 the Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night confirmed Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood's appointment of John D. Wright of Newtonville as chairman of the Board of Assessors. Mr. Wright succeeds the late John W. Murphy, for the balance of the 3 year term which began on February 1, 1948.

Mr. Wright whose home is 14 Whitney road, Newtonville was formerly associated with the late Attorney-General J. Weston Allen in the practice of law and served as associate legislative counsel and clerk of the rules committee of the State House and Senate.

In 1931 he was named a member of the Massachusetts Board of Tax Appeals and in 1945 became counsel of the board. He also has served with a special commission on jury services and a special commission on taxation.

Mr. Adler speaks highly of Mr. Bob Munstedt's specialties in entertainment for children. In this field he has had much experience not only as an entertainer, but as a coach and teacher. Edgar Copell, State Traffic Engineer Favors Meters, Parallel Parking, Is Opposed to Angle Parking on Streets

By RUTH F. YOUNG

The traffic problems and the installation of parking meters were the main topics of discussion at the joint annual business dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of Newton and various Service and Business Men's organizations at the Normandie Restaurant, Norumbega Park. The chief speakers of the evening were Newton's Mayor Theodore Lockwood and Mr. Edgar F. Copell, chief traffic engineer of the State Department and President of the Massachusetts Council of Public Safety.

In his speech Mayor Lockwood stated that Newton was not only thinking of the traffic problem but of the problems of the business men and their customers and how they could best be served. He spoke of the problems facing the city such as Veterans Housing projects and a proposed public building program and how they are being and will be solved. He added that with the installation of parking meters as a beginning, Newton, because of its population and potential buying power, will be open to further development and expansion.

Mr. Edgar F. Copell, chief traffic engineer of the State Department, in discussing further the traffic situation said, "There is a dire necessity for having scientific research and approach to traffic and highway situations. I feel that parking meters should become legal traffic control devices as are lights, stop signs, etc."

He also stressed parallel parking as opposed to angle parking because of the dangers of backing out blindly from an angle as well as taking up more needed space on the highway.

A question period followed Mr. Copell's speech with members of the Business Men's Organizations of Newton Corner, Newton Centre, West Newton, bringing up matters which had been discussed in their special committees on this traffic problem. Mr. Philip Sherman, president of the Business Men's Organization at New

Babies Change Wills

Unless you revise your will after your child's birth, he may be entitled to a share of your estate—no matter what the will says. Under some circumstances, your children's share may be larger than your wife's.

Whenever a birth, or any other family change, occurs in your family, check with your lawyer to see what effect it has on your will. This is the only way you can be sure that your property will go to those you want to get it.

ton Corner, introduced Mr. Murray Marble who questioned the speaker as to the advisability of establishing off-street parking first as essential for the installation of the meters. It was pointed out by Mr. Copell that the meters should, of necessity, come first, that the income derived from them could be used to establish off-street parking areas. The Newton Centre Business Men's Organization, with Mr. Frederick Wood as president, was agreeable to the idea of installing parking meters provided the area compensated for the space would be taken away by providing space elsewhere.

Mr. Richard Brown, president of the West Newton Business Men's Association, stated that some of the worst offenders were the merchants themselves and that West Newton, which already has parallel parking, needed the parking meters together with police enforcement. Newtonville business men, represented by Mr. Mugar, owner of the Star Market in Newtonville, were found in favor of the parking meters, also believing that better parking helps business in stores.

During the evening members of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Clubs entertained with renditions of their theme songs. The invocation was given by Rev. Arthur Block of the Lutheran church. Among those present were: Mayor Theodore Lockwood and Mrs. Lockwood; Mrs. Royce, President of Newton Zonta Club; Harold Gores, President of Newton Rotary; Mr. Frank Battles, President of Newton Corner's Business Men's Organization; George Pascoe, President of Lions; Mr. Frederick Wood, President of Newton Centre Business Association; Mr. Richard Brown, President of the West Newton Business Men; Mr. Roy S. Edwards, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Rupert Thompson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Junior Red Cross Carries On Service Activities

The three "R's" have been occupying the attention of members of the Newton Junior Red Cross Council for many Saturday mornings recently. This was not due to extra school classes, but because these boys and girls have sorted and packed hundreds of textbooks which were sent to a southern school with very few supplies.

In the loft of the barn of the Newton Red Cross Chapter House, arithmetic, history, geography, and other textbooks discarded for new editions by the Newton schools, were placed in their respective heaps and enclosed in cartons for shipment. One small box of a variety of books was filled to meet the needs of a youngster on plantation.

Newton Juniors are also hemming 5000 towels for the people of Poland. These have been purchased out of Junior Service Funds.

Juniors are also helping in the clerical work involved in the current solicitation of funds for the Cancer Campaign. Each afternoon volunteers from the Junior High Schools report at the Chapter House to insert mailing material in envelopes. This means a real saving in the hiring of clerical assistance.

Comedy—

"Dear Ruth" is the second of two shows staged each season by this club and is being produced in collaboration with Central Players, the dramatic group at Central Church. Members of the cast were selected competitively and have been hard at work since the early part of March, so that a finished performance is assured on both nights.

Tickets for this production are already in the hands of the members of Central Club and advance sales indicate a sell-out of the seating capacity of Woodward auditorium for both performances. It is hoped that a limited number of tickets will be available at the door each evening. Reservations may be made at the church office during the coming week.

Following are the members of the cast, most of whom are well and favorably known to Newton play-goers: Edward J. Gough as Judge Wilkins, Edna M. White as Mrs. Wilkins, Marjorie Reynolds as Ruth, Jeanne Caswell as Miriam, Donald Macle as Lt. Seawright, Chet Hervey as Albert, Vivian Phillips as Martha, Richard Higgins as Sgt. Chuck Vincent, Katherine G. Hill as Dora and Alvin Whitmore as Harold Klobbermeyer.

The business staff for "Dear Ruth" is as follows: Chet Hervey, general chairman, Charles Peterson and Wm. P. Fowler, scenery and lighting, T. W. Stuart, Herbert F. Rich and Harold E. Boone, tickets, Betty Baringer, Helen Starbird, Winona Starbird, properties. The play is under the direction of Miss M. Louise Wetherbee.

wondered why she could never grow violets. She found the answer when she saw me pulling them up for weeds. So I no longer work in the garden!"

"Just two more questions, Mr. Edwards. Many people are interested in building homes but the situation is confusing," I said. "What is your opinion of building prices? And when will prices drop?"

"The prices of building materials, including lumber, are almost prohibitive. On account of this scarcity and enormous demand, I cannot see where prices will drop to any extent in the near future. It would be grand thing for everyone if we could get prices down considerably. So in the present situation it seems wise to postpone building of homes except in cases where they are really necessary.

The predictions in the lumber business are that the same conditions will exist into the last part of this year. From that point on nobody knows!"

Safety On Highway

"Even one child's death or injury on our streets is too many," Highway Safety Director Lowrey of the Massachusetts Safety Council declared this week.

He made this statement in connection with the Council's "Watch Out For Kids" traffic safety promotion program, as part of a nationwide program on the same theme sponsored by the National Safety Council.

"Every driver must always be prepared for the unexpected—a child running into the street or darting into the car's path on a bicycle, scooter or a coaster wagon. Children at play often forget to be careful!"

"Grown-ups—parents, teachers and motorists—must take the responsibility for our children's safety. First, teach them how to be safe, then set the example by your own proper actions. Always take for granted that a child may forget—and always 'Watch Out For Kids'."

April is car inspection month. If your car has faulty brakes, or any other mechanical defects, they should be remedied at once. Have your car inspected early in the month. There are any number of authorized service stations in Newton that will do this for you.

Why War Preparations?

Why is the President asking Congress for war preparations? The American people may soon know.

A resolution introduced by 32 Republican Senators on March 19 should result in revealing the nature of the mysterious commitments made at Teheran, Cairo, Yalta and Potsdam which, it is now evident, are the bases of the present international crisis.

Yet President Truman is the only one who can divulge the secrets of those historic conferences. In his special message to Congress on March 17, he issued a call to arms because of a war threat without stating what that threat is.

Going no further than to say that one nation has "persistently ignored and violated" agreements which "could have furnished a basis for a just peace," he made commitments binding on the lives of all Americans. On this indictment he has asked Congress to take steps. On these secrets he wants Congress to set the stage for a possible War III.

In behalf of the people who are involved in this crisis, the Senators have asked Mr. Truman to tell Americans just how far they have been committed as a nation. Joining in sponsorship of the resolution, one of the 32 Senators recalled the American watchword, "United we stand, divided we fall."

"If we are united in our foreign policy," he said, "we will stand. But how could we know whether we are united when our foreign policy is in the hands of one man?"

The resolution asks the President to state the specific violations which he believes have brought us to the brink of war. It asks that Congress and the people be told just what agreements were made at these mysterious conferences, which the Administration has designated as the foreign policy for 145 million Americans.

Further questions will be asked—all of them vitally important:

Was the domination of Poland by Russia agreed to in the conference, or is it a violation?

Is Yugoslavia's alliance with Russia a double-cross, or is that part of our secretly fixed foreign policy?

What of Czechoslovakia—agreed to, or a violation?

Who's the violator in Greece?

How far, by agreement, was Russia to go in Italy?

What of Finland—agreement or violation?

These are the international issues which today threaten Americans with war. These are the issues which today prompt the huge spending of American dollars in other parts of the world to halt the spread of Russian influence.

Ration books in the hands of proletarian states are the most powerful means of control. A power unprecedented in history, a means of compulsion stronger than the laws of the convent or the guillotine.—Joseph Stalin.

In 1929 the number of civilian employees in government bureaus was 575,585. On June 30, 1947 there were 2,128,648. Washington wiseacres claim that the 1948 figure will be late because of the trouble computing the extras who were put on to make the count.

Washington, with its millions of governmental employees is best summed up by Mark Twain's old story about the "fifty thousand ants goin' down the Mississippi on a log—every blamed one of 'em thinks he's steerin'."

Newton Centre

Spring fever is with us again, played to the tune of baseball, soccer and all those vitalized sports. And here's a bit of lime-light along with the sunlight: Newton Centre's Dick Manville has done the town right proud by whooping it up, base-ically speaking, on the Yale mound. Now let's come indoors, just long enough to see Tenley Albrigton of 990 Centre street, doing her "number work" on ice. It is no small thing to be New England Ladies Junior Figure Skating Champion as Tenley is, and when you see her in "Ice Chips" at the Arena April 9, 10 and 11, you will readily see why. And that's not all the glamour queens from our little hamlet: There's Dottie Dillon and Rosemary Crowley doing us proud. So hats off, to the lovely lassies with their skates on.

Speaking of feature presentations: There's that Mr. Stork again. We find him co-starring with the Richardson House this time, featuring a very new little Miss Norton. Her daddy is Ray Norton, Jr., formerly of Newton Centre, and the proud Newton Centre grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Norton of Morton street.

To go from one thing to another, I want to remind you again about that wonderful concert at the High School on April 13. In fact, you don't even have to go to Newton Centre to get your tickets. There's Mary Clark of Newton Centre, just overflowing with them and being chairman of these things, she can tell you lots more about it. Frankly, with a piano soloing, I need hear no more, Lucas Foss can count on all my ten fingers to clap him into an encore.

The thespians are at it again, and in the guise of the Players of the Unitarian church. Don't miss this third annual production, as it promises to be a wow! It's written by a neighbor, Marjorie Carleton, and her home town, West Newton, can be rightly proud of her. The cast is bubbling over with Newton Centres, including Mrs. Joseph M. Orr, Richard Seeger, Mrs. William Whittemore and many others. It's going to be a gay time, which Mrs. H. Thaxter Spencer, Ted Drowne and Mrs. G. R. Glencenning, the able directors, can tell you.

You guessed it, music is my pet subject, and I bet it's some of yours. Many of you like to sing and play and work at it, but all of you like to sing for the fun of it. Can you think of anything more fun than being part of a glee club? Well, you're invited. Mrs. C. Hassler Capron can tell you about it. She will tell you how these glee-clubbers called the New-Tones braved the highest mountains of snow every Monday morning, all winter long, to sing at her home at 183 Lake avenue, Newton Centre. And last Thursday they had a whee of a time in a recital under the direction of the famous Erdine T. Oedel, with Marjorie Schoonmaker accompanying. This was at Mrs. Capron's home too, with an added treat of Jane Hung as soloist. She sang "One World," by Goeffrey O'Hara. It might be interesting to note that this popular glee club called the New-Tones is an energetic group of people who have grown out of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club Glee Club and the West Newton Community Service Glee Club.

April is a full month. But one thing you don't want to miss is the bazaar at the Newton Centre Woman's Club, the 13th and 14th. It's sponsored by the Newton Centre Woman's Club for the benefit of the Perkins Institute of the Blind. You'll see Mrs. Harold Tempel there busily watching over the Methodist church table, and Mrs. Vincent P. Maloney busily being responsible for the Congregational church table. In fact, there'll be many of your Newton Centre friends there helping to make your buying pleasure bring happiness to

Mr. Benjamin Slawsby has purchased the fieldstone ranch house at 38 Hartmann road in the Oak Hill Village section and will make this his permanent home.

Miss Barbara Woodworth is serving as chairman of the Boston Wheaton College Club annual spring dance to be held in the Commander Hotel in Cambridge, this Saturday evening.

Newton's Younger Generation

THIS IS MURIEL LORING at the age of one year. So far as we're concerned, she can have anything she wants from us when she looks like that. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Loring of Newton, and she has a brother Ned, who's four years old. They all live together at 696 Dedham street, and she feels pretty proud because in a recent issue of the Boston Herald Rotogravure section, she found a picture of her house with Mommy and brother Ned included.

'The Future of Newton' Topic of Civ. Assoc. Meeting

Daniel P. S. Paul will be the speaker at the meeting of the Newton Civic Association, Friday evening, April 9, at the Newton Highlands Workshop. Mr. Paul, a graduate of Harvard University and Harvard Law School, doing graduate work at the School of Public Administration, has undertaken a special study of the Newton tax structure. He will discuss the sociological implications of the Newton tax structure, under the topic "The Future of Newton."

The meeting at 8:30, which is open to all Newton citizens, will be preceded at 8:00 by the serving of after dinner coffee. The Newton Civic Association, founded after the recent city elections, has announced a three-fold purpose: to promote representative, honest and efficient conduct of local government; to induce citizens to take an active interest in the affairs of the City of Newton; to encourage and support the candidacy of competent men and women to seek election to public office and to support intelligent, business-like leadership in public affairs. Mrs. David Skinner, Chairman of the Association, will open the meeting; Albert Beisel, Jr., will be Moderator.

As a result of the March meeting of the Association, the following special study committees have been activated to consider problems in various fields of local government and report to the members: education, R. Caspar Swaney, Mrs. Robert A. Budington, Jr., Mrs. Lloyd C. Fogg, John Taplin, Norman C. Moore; public works, William A. Medlicott, Jr., Frederick M. Ford, Jr., Joseph Skinner, Edward V. Hickey, Jr., Mrs. Thomas DeWan, N. Grossman, Theodore Friedricks, James Bryant, Mrs. David Skinner, Vincent P. Maloney.

Refreshments will be served by the Hospitality Committee with Mrs. Thomas P. DeWan as chairman. Assisting will be Mrs. John Stetson and Mrs. Edward V. Hickey, Jr. Mrs. Albert Beisel, Jr., will pour.

At the U. S. Navy Fleet Weather Central in Pearl Harbor, 300 weather reports are received from ships and stations every six hours, translated into a weather map, coded and broadcast.

Jet planes were first flown off and on a carrier by the Navy in August, 1946, almost two years ago, when the FD-1, the Phantom, operated off and on the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Arthur H. Bradford performed the ceremony. A reception followed at the Brae Burn Country Club.

The bride's gown of heavy white satin trimmed with chantilly lace was fashioned with long sleeves and full skirt with long circular train. Her veil of ivory illusion with a panel of Brussels lace was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids, lilies of the valley and stephanotis. Her matron of honor, Mrs. William W. Palme, 2d, of West Newton, wore a hoopskirt gown of ice-blue bengaline and carried violets and blue delphinium. The bride's mother wore royal blue with matching gloves and hat and a corsage of baby orchids. Mrs. Crossley was gowned in white and gold.

John Earshaw of Fall River was the best man and the ushers were Carl E. Tucker and William Wellington Paine, 2d, of West Newton and Robert Connors of Fall River.

Dr. Charles Joy performed the ceremony which was followed by a reception at Longwood Towers, Brookline.

The bride's gown of ivory satin was embroidered with seed pearls, and a tiara of matching pearls held her full length veil. White carnations and orchids were combined in her bouquet. Mrs. Henry Hayes of Springfield, sister of the bridegroom, and matron of honor, wore yellow taffeta. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Richard Schradieck of Philadelphia, Mrs. David McLean of Hartford, Conn., Miss Janet Fraas of Fitchburg and Miss Thelma Sarris of Amherst, wore gowns of pale green and carried Spring flowers.

The bride's mother wore royal blue with a matching hat and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Von Loescke wore grey with an orchid corsage.

Taxpayers Hail City Report Resolution

The unanimous vote of the Board of Aldermen calling for publication of the yearly departmental reports by April first of the succeeding year calls for cheers, asserted Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., executive secretary of the Newton Taxpayers' Association, as he expressed satisfaction that another aim of the Association had been implemented.

The girls members of the 4H cooking clubs, have been learning the beginning steps in meal preparation and good nutrition during the past winter under the direction of Miss Olga Harcovitz.

Mrs. Bella Norton and Miss Joanna Sandman. To demonstrate what they have learned this special supper is a high light in the year's work when the girls may show their mothers how well they can work with food preparation.

After supper Miss Nancy Fay Pearson, 4H Middlesex County Agent, showed colored slides taken at the 4H congress in Chicago last November to which Miss Virginia Fisher was sent as a Massachusetts delegate. Miss Fisher told of number of the interesting places visited during her trip last fall and about some of the outstanding meetings which she attended in Chicago. Girls from two 4H Sewing Classes were invited to see the slides and to hear Miss Fisher.

Flower Show Hit of Opening

Looking through the all-glass front of the white columned building, shoppers might have thought that the Flower Show had moved in. And so it had. Twenty-one garden clubs from Wellesley and surrounding towns entered into competitive showing of flower arrangements. There were many classes and a particularly notable group of floral treatments not subject to judging entered "by invitation" by some of the region's top flower authorities.

Ledges, display cases, counter tops and stairways sprouted blossoms or trailed ivy. The ordinarily glamorous clothes mannequins simply served as card-holders to identify exhibits and exhibitors. All this was in the interests of the "Seeds for Peace" drive, official charity of the Federated Clubs, the purpose of which is to send sorely-needed vegetable and cheering flower seeds to the stricken countries of Europe.

The direction of the flower show was under Mrs. Chester Cook and Mrs. Paul Wedleight of the Exhibitions Committee of the Federation. Mrs. Janet Jordan of Filene's was show chairman.

The committee on entries and classifications was made up of Mrs. Leigh Nisbet (President of the Wellesley Garden Club) and Mrs. Edward Werner as co-chairmen, and Mrs. George Llenau, Mrs. Loring Marshall and Mrs. Harold Wiswall, all of the Wellesley Club.

Since the new building is big, the judges covered a lot of ground before being able to make their decisions known. The judges were Mrs. Paul F. Wedleight, Mrs. E. Carlisle Baker, Mrs. Albert R. Sharp, Mrs. Chester

"Open House" In First Big Suburban Post-War Store*Filene Wellesley Unit Completed: Flower Show Hit of the Opening

The first major suburban retail store to be completed in the vicinity of Boston since the war is having "open house" this month. Hundreds thronged through the just finished king sized Filene store in Wellesley. And they had thrills not usually found in downtown stores, let alone suburban shops. There was a flower show on the opening day conducted by the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts. There were historical models, especially made for the school children of the area. And of course, there is the store itself.

With its upper and lower selling floors, balcony and central tower, the new Filene store is one of the biggest suburban retail stores in the Boston region. Its convenient location in Wellesley is easily reached by railroad or bus, while the Worcester turnpike, which passes within a mile with direct access by road, or route 135 which goes directly past the doors, make it easily accessible to motorists. A study of the store charge accounts shows that shoppers are drawn in numbers from surrounding communities as far West as Southborough, North as Concord, South as Walpole and East into Boston proper.

All proposals shall be made in duplicate on forms furnished by said Commissioner. One of these copies (the original) to be submitted by the bidder to the Public Buildings Commissioner and the copy to the Comptroller of Accounts, both having offices at the Newton City Hall, 1000 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton Center, Mass., prior to the time set for the opening of bids (as required by the Ordinances of the City of Newton, Chapter 2, Section 2).

A surety bond by a company satisfactory to the Mayor of the City of Newton, and in an amount equal to one hundred per centum (100%) of the proposals accepted will be required from the successful bidder.

Information can be obtained beginning at 2 p.m., Tuesday, April 13, 1948, at the office of the Commissioner.

The Commissioner reserves the right to accept or reject any proposal, or any part of any proposal, and to award the contract as he may deem to be for the best interests of the City of Newton.

By SARAH SHIELDS PFEIFFER

ORVILLE O. CLAPPER

It is no news to anyone that our recent, formidable winter did a great deal of damage to Newton's streets and plant life. But here is official word from the latter from Orville O. Clapper, president of The Clapper Co., at 1121 Washington St., West Newton. In the past three weeks he has sold more tree paint, wax and pruning tools than is customary in an entire year!

Mr. Clapper also predicts that this season will be one of the biggest ever for the sale of grass seed. Why? That also is due to the winter. A fungus, known as snow mold, is responsible. It grew when snow fell before the ground froze and lived on the moisture that was present when the temperature stayed just before freezing. What we should have done was to drop our snow shovels and get at the mold with garden rakes while it was still damp. Never mind what the neighbors would say about the queerness of raking the lawn in January! So, the entire east coast is despoiled by grass that has been killed in a series of frosts from snow mold.

And now to jump headlong into summer statistics. Mr. Clapper passes along the information that New England lawns are mowed on the average of 22 weeks a year; New York 26 weeks and Philadelphia 34 weeks. He often sees lawn mowers 25 years old giving good service. The main factor in lawn mower longevity is to keep the blades sharpened and properly adjusted.

The source of my information is a tall, balding gentleman who came from the southern part of Missouri. He wears a small mustache, shining spectacles and bow ties. He makes a distinguished appearance with his preference for browns and blues in clothes. And the variety of his travel and knowledge combine to create fascinating conversation.

Born in Paris, Mo., in 1895, Orville Clapper attended public schools in Minneapolis, Minn., and Billings, Mont., and the Pillsbury Military Academy in Owatonna, Minn. Since then he has studied mechanical and hydraulic engineering and agronomy (the science of growing finer turf). Later he served as purchasing agent for the Toro Manufacturing Co., of Minneapolis. He came to New England in 1922 to investigate business conditions and decided to locate permanently.

He met Mrs. Clapper, the former Helen Elizabeth Brown, at a Charles River Country Club luncheon shortly after the club was opened. She had attended the Newton schools and was graduated from the Allen School where she was a seatmate with Miss Adelaide E. Ball. The Clappers were married in Richmond, Va., a state she had loved since a child.

Their only son, Samuel Marion Clapper, is a senior at Newton High. He wants to major in agronomy at Cornell University or at the University of Massachusetts, where his Dad has lectured on golf course equipment for 25 years.

The Clapper home at 26 Lewellyn road, West Newton, is a brick and clapboard house of the newest construction. The lot is well landscaped. In the little pine

The cast of "Dear Ruth" the hilarious two-act comedy by Norman Krasna, to be presented by the men's club of Central Church in Woodward Hall on Friday and Saturday evenings, April 16 and 17, is putting the final touches on this amusing play.

Over 80 Displays at 1948 Boy Scout Exposition Apr 17

By MOLLI OLIVER

Not only is Mom going to uncork her pride over her Scouting son when she visits the Boy Scout Exposition at Newton High School on April 17th, but Pop himself is going to wonder why there were so few opportunities in Scouting when he was in knee pants.

In his day what boy was familiar with aerodynamics? Imagine a kid taking an eight-hour solo flight to win a Merit Badge?

What in the world was a "fizz wagon?" Radar had yet to prick his horizon. Nature lore was a stranger in the woods he roamed.

Camping was but a highfalutin term. And think of a boy in his crowd bouncing the words "electric gyroscopic compass" around on his tongue!

And yet on April 17th hun-him in Newton where he can settle down, raise a family and become a definite part of the community."

Mrs. Clapper exclaims that in 25 years of married life they've had only one real vacation together which was in Florida. Perhaps when Sam goes to college next year they'll motor slowly to some of the National Parks or take a long boat trip. However, every year Mr. Clapper visits his mother in Missouri. Then the big clan of relatives gathers. Every family has a projector and shows off the Kodachromes they've taken. So much good homecooked food is served that Orville "can't eat another thing for a week afterward." He continues to urge his brother, the only other Republican in the family, to move east. But the brother loves Montana as much as Orville loves New England.

Yet members of his family like to come east for visits. The Clappers long remember the first time that Orville's sister came on. She had spent 6 months in studying the historical background of this section, knowing more than they did. "She led us on a merry chase all over New England," he recalls with a deep twinkle. "She took us to church twice every Sunday, instead of our customary once, so that she could see more famous churches. Now this sister is living in Fayette, Mo., where she lectures to clubs about New England!"

Since then Mrs. Clapper has organized family tours to fit a visitor's time budget. If half a day is available, the guest is driven to Concord and Lexington. Three packaged trips take undreds of Wellesley and Newton fathers will watch their own Scouting sons demonstrate the skills of such words, as over 2,000 Boy Scouts of the Norumbega Council man eighty booths in a huge vocal and public encyclopedia of Scouting in 1948 and pictorialize in action the theme of their Exposition, "This is Scouting" both for their parents and the public.

Air Scouting will be dramatized by air-minded Scouts who will operate an air-drawn pilot's seat, built like a modern cockpit to assimilate everyday navigation problems of wind, air, draft, etc.

Cub Scouts will erect on the spot boats, planes, ships, trains in model Cub Dens, featuring modern materials of building kits that train as they entertain minds to maturity.

Sea Scouts will pipe visitors aboard their booth exhibit on Sea Navigation, making public demonstration of ship to shore aides, of the all powerful electric gyroscopic compass for maintenance of course on sea lanes.

Scouts will also lay out a racing track, stretching a wire one inch above the ground as they propel "fizz wagons"—model racing cars—to illustrate speed and transportation problems in their knowledge of tools.

Among the larger exhibits will be the Drill Shed, next door to the Auditorium, which will feature camping equipment from pioneer times right down to the latest outdoor accoutrement used by Scouts for grooming them.

Doors will open at 1:30 p.m. on April 18 and close at 10 p.m.

The school cafeteria will be available for refreshments at this time,

Even land surveying will take a prominent part in the Exposition. Scouts will rope off a model area of land and apply modern measurements of transit and plumb line.

Weather stations will spin into action with Boy Scouts determining predictions, prevailing conditions, measuring rainfall and wind course.

The public will be invited to witness travelogs, mapping, handicraft, hobbies, first aid, firemanship, finger printing, mechanical drawing, bird study, cycling, photography, signaling, television, portraiture.

In addition to the many display booths of the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, Boston's Red Feather agencies, the Newton Police and Fire Departments, the National Guard, the Norumbega Council, the Y.M.C.A., and other outstanding civic agencies will round out the Exposition on this date.

Guild of St. Francis

On Tuesday, April 20th, at 8 p. m. in the Sacred Heart School Hall, the Guild of Saint Francis will present Andre Snow, well known New England photographer, who will give his illustrated color lecture on French Alps.

Not only are Mr. Snow's pictures a vivid record of a country rich in scenic beauty and cultural heritage, but through his personal contacts while traveling through France, he caught the indomitable spirit of a people who have never accepted defeat spiritually or politically.

The committee in charge of the affair are Mrs. James E. Hogan, Mrs. Fredrick J. Shea, and Mrs. William J. Sheehan, Chairmen; Mrs. Edwin E. Crowley, Mrs. Matthew J. Dillon, Mrs. William F. Magee, Mrs. Justin J. Connor Jr., Mrs. F. Preston Herring, Mrs. Francis F. Heanne, Mrs. George M. Bernier, Mrs. Joseph J. Supple, Mrs. Brendan J. Whittaker, Mrs. James F. Kerrigan, Mrs. Walter T. Service Clubs To Have Spring Joint Meeting

The Kiwanis, Rotary and Y's men will meet with the Newton Lions Club at the Newton Y. M. C. A. on April 22. The dinner meeting will be at 6:30 p.m.

Prof. Kirtley F. Mather will speak on "American Resources in the Light of the World's Needs."

plement her talk. The first group included samples of English earthenware—delft, salt glaze, red ware, white salt glaze, enamel salt glaze, agate ware, caulkiloware, wedgwood and wedgwood cream ware, jasper ware or stone ware, bristol ware. The second group included samples of porcelain made in England for a short period of 50 years from 1745. Because of the excellent work done by Mr. Wedgwood, in the earthenware she said porcelain makers were forced out of business. Much of this porcelain was made at Chelsea, Worcester and Derby. It was beautifully decorated and included many pieces of figure modeling. The third group included samples of general types of ware such as lustre, liverpool and blue print ed staffordshire.

Mrs. Edward B. Gray, chairman of the preservation of antiquities committee, introduced the speaker. A display of antique furniture, lamps, old china and glass proved of great interest to members. Collections of pressed glass were displayed by Mrs. E. W. Lewis—roman rosette, Mrs. Edward B. Gray—argus glass, Mrs. Irving B. Kelley—bullock glass, Mrs. Walter Jehu—ash-brown glass and blown glass. Collections of china were displayed by Mrs. C. J. Allen—Lincoln drape, Miss Anne Bunker—French china tea set, Mrs. Irving B. Kelley—Chelsea ware, Mrs. Walter White—mulberry and Staffordshire, Mrs. Earle D. Wood—royal Worcester china, Kathryn Wilson—touraine semi porcelain, Mrs. Keith C. Parris—a 200 year old tea set. Tables of mixed china and glass included pieces displayed by Mrs. Thomas W. Ferguson, Mrs. Walter Amesbury, Mrs. Gregory J. Samoylenko. Other exhibitors were Mrs. Alan S. Eldredge—100 year old silver tea service, Mrs. Neal D. Herrick—mahogany table which she refinished, Mrs. Wallace Kelley and Mrs. George Armstrong—pewter.

In distinguishing and evaluating antique china, she pointed out, five attributes should be considered—the basic ingredient of which it is made, the glaze that covers it, its shape, its decoration and its mark. China may be classed as earthenware or porcelain. Earthenware has a simple, soft, porous body made of clay and fired at a low temperature while porcelain has a hard, thin, white body made of special ingredients and fired at a high temperature. It appears translucent. Glaze is a thin, liquid, glassy substance into which pieces are dipped. It makes the china less porous and impervious to acid and brings out the color. The shape of the china helps determine its age as early china was small and round in form but gradually became elongated. By the 19th century it became very large and tall. The decoration of the china includes perforating, sizing, sprigging, hand painting and transfer printing. From this can be determined the maker and period. Marks on china are helpful in identifying the maker.

Mrs. Little presented three groups of colored slides to support her talk. The first group included samples of English earthenware—delft, salt glaze, red ware, white salt glaze, enamel salt glaze, agate ware, caulkiloware, wedgwood and wedgwood cream ware, jasper ware or stone ware, bristol ware. The second group included samples of porcelain made in England for a short period of 50 years from 1745. Because of the excellent work done by Mr. Wedgwood, in the earthenware she said porcelain makers were forced out of business. Much of this porcelain was made at Chelsea, Worcester and Derby. It was beautifully decorated and included many pieces of figure modeling. The third group included samples of general types of ware such as lustre, liverpool and blue print ed staffordshire.

Mrs. Darragh L. Higgins, president, conducted the business meeting. She invited members to attend the meeting of the American Home Committee next Tuesday, April 20, when the Monsanto Chemical Company will present a speaker on the subject "Textiles through Chemistry."

The special guest for the day,

Mrs. Ernest A. Hale, twelfth dis-

Your Newton Public Health Nurse

The most important individual in any health service is the public health nurse. She is the liaison between the physician and his patient, between the health department and the citizen. It is the public health nurse who brings the benefits of any public health program to the beneficiary. It is she who serves as family counsellor in many of the trying problems associated with the rearing of children in the modern city. She interprets to citizens and their children the latest knowledge regarding personal health, including the fields of child and adult health, tuberculosis control and communicable disease supervision. She is a trained specialist who knows community resources and has the ability to get things done. Regardless of the economic status of the family, she is always prepared to make some helpful suggestion to those who seek her aid. Your Health Department employs nine public health nurses, and the Newton District Nursing Association nine. Newton citizens are most fortunate in having available such well trained personnel to serve them at all times.

Y.M.C.A.'s Record of Service

The ability to get along in a changing world calls for adaptability. Nations have risen to strength only to fall prey to an invading army or the slow decay of time because they were unable to adapt themselves to changing conditions. The same can be said for individuals, industrial concerns or organizations.

Perhaps the reason the Young Men's Christian Association has endured in full vigor for more than a century is its ability to adjust its service to meet a great variety of needs. Nowhere is this better exemplified than in its World Service program which this month observes its 50th anniversary. Through it, Y.M.C.A.s of North America have carried the Red Triangle to 34 of the 74 nations now served by this very worthwhile movement.

In doing this they have done more than merely transport an American organization across the seas. In each country the "Y" found special needs and set out to meet them. Thus, it has gone into a backyard rural area in Mexico and established a center which is raising the living standards of the whole countryside by showing the people how to better their land, grow many new crops, and fight the twin plagues of pestilence and superstition. In China, when the Y.M.C.A. found young people eager for education but with no one to teach them, it set up schools which formed a pattern for others throughout the Orient. Despite the bitterness and bloodshed now rampant in the Holy Land, the Y.M.C.A. there for many years has operated a pilot plant demonstration that Arabs, Christians and Jews can live in peace together.

Especially during the month of April when the North American Y.M.C.A.s are observing World Service month, we wish to call attention to the work of the Y.M.C.A. both nationally and locally. The Y.M.C.A. has demonstrated through the years that it deserves the support of thoughtful citizens everywhere.

Our Bewildered President

The year-long running duel between the President and Congress over income tax reduction ended in victory for the lawmakers. Mr. Truman's 1500 words of veto met the following terse rebuttal in the Bridgeport (Conn.) Post:

"We hope that President Truman's tax-veto message, which Congress promptly overrode by overwhelming majorities in both houses, was written for him by a ghost. We should hate to think that the Presidency of the United States, even for another year, was in the hands of a man capable of such inane, bewildered and completely obfuscated reasoning."

"For example, the President made the point that a tax reduction 'will help to drive the cost of living still higher.' It would be necessary to rake through the insane asylums and the homes for imbeciles to find a statement more completely contrary to the facts."

"Taxes—local, State, and national—now take nearly thirty cents out of every dollar produced by the toilers of America. Taxation itself is the high cost of living! The farmer gives up one third of his crop, the toiler gives up one third of his toil, the businessman gives up one third of his skill, all to go into the ever-greedy Federal maw."

"The greatest single step which can be taken to reduce the high cost of living would be a reduction in the amount of money taken from the pay envelope by the tax grabbers. And yet, the President of the United States has the almost inconceivable effrontery to tell the nation that reducing taxes could add to the high cost of living."

"The rest of Truman's message was much in the same vein of reasoning. For example, he opposed the reduction on the ground that forty per cent of the tax reduction would affect persons having incomes of $5000 or more. Of course, that is only another way of saying that if you reduce taxes, those who are already paying the most will get the most reduction. How could it be otherwise? The President's idea of a 'fair' tax reduction, we'll say, is that everybody should be allowed a reduction of one dollar. That is, the man whose present tax is one dollar would pay nothing, and the man whose tax is $10,000 would pay only $9999."

"Suppose that two men are engaged in toting a load and one is carrying only 10 pounds while the other is carrying 100. Harry Truman's idea of equalizing the load is apparently to take one pound off the shoulders of each."

"In the face of such reasoning even Henry Agard Wallace sounds plausible."

Newton in the Past

From the files of the Newton Graphic

55 Years Ago—April 14, 1893

NEWTON—Mr. E. P. Burnham has sold over twenty of the Victor and Lovell bicycles so far this season. He has a very light machine on exhibition in Hubbard's window, weighing 32½ pounds called "The Ladies' Triumph" with Gormully and Jeffrey's pneumatic tires, also fitted with a Dover gear case, covering the chain and sprocket wheels, a complete protection for ladies' dresses.

WABAN—A band of gypsies has taken up its abode in a clump of woods near the village. It is expected that every family will be supplied with baskets before long.

WEST NEWTON—A prominent resident of this city has written to Mr. C. Willard Carter offering to contribute $1000 and an annual stipend toward the establishment of an Episcopal church in either West Newton or Newtonville. A former resident of this place has also requested the privilege of contributing toward the same object.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS—The alarm from 621 Wednesday morning was for a fire at one of the United States Fireworks Co. buildings. An explosion occurred at No. 4 where the large candles are manufactured. Norman Oakley was blown out the door, his clothes from the waist up being burnt off and his chest, face and hands badly burned. He was removed to the Newton Hospital by advice of Dr. Thompson. His brother, blown out another door was not hurt. The building was wholly destroyed.

50 Years Ago—April 15, 1898

NEWTON—The Centre Place bridge is now in the hands of a small gang of bridge builders, and from appearances the work will be completed within a few months. The highway department has begun the widening of the street, and the work will probably be finished when the bridge is open for travel.

NEWTON—That fence around Armory Hall that has been put up this week has caused a good deal of criticism among citizens who have followed the fashion and removed the fences in front of their lawns. The fence of rough posts and wire is certainly not ornamental, but possibly it was thought cheaper to build the fence than to station a policeman there to keep the boys off the newly levelled ground until the grass had a chance to grow.

AUBURNDALE—The Boston and Albany Railroad has established a nursery on vacant land near the freight yard for the cultivation of small trees and shrubbery to be placed on grounds about the depots on the main and branch lines. Headmaster Richardson will be in charge.

WEST NEWTON—Sunday afternoon there will be the laying of the corner stone of the Myrtle Baptist Church. The church will cost $5000 when completely finished.

35 Years Ago—April 18, 1913

The Newton Y.M.C.A. has just received its first legacy which is also the beginning of a permanent fund, the income of which will be used to help carry on association work. The legacy was given by Mrs. Abbie A. Hannaford, who lived in this city for many years and died two years ago. Mrs. Hannaford was always very much interested in young people and in the work of the association.

NEWTON—Ground is being broken this week for the new rectory of Grace Church.

YER OUT!

Politics With Color

by P. W. C.

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

The Wisconsin Primary

Many of the commentators who analyzed the results of the Wisconsin primary a little over a week ago made three important points, but failed to stress, as I view the situation, one of the most vital features. The three points concerning which there appeared to be general agreement were as follows: the obviously increasing strength and prestige of the Harold Stassen candidacy, which bowed over Governor Dewey like a steam-roller; the temporary blow to Governor Dewey's smoothly-running campaign for the coveted nomination, and last, but far from least, the apparent decision of the voters of at least one important state to cast one side the desirability of giving the Presidential nomination to a military man, regardless of his prowess during the war.

The first two points require no elaboration. Future primaries may modify the significance of these results. The third point, however, will very likely have a profound effect on the campaign in the months to come. If the voters in Wisconsin, which made a favorite son of General MacArthur, even though he was not technically born in that state, decided that they did not want a military man in the White House, it is not probable that voters of other states will feel the same way? Let us not forget that the late Wendell Willkie, after staking his all on the Wisconsin primaries, withdrew from the race for the G.O.P. nomination. That was the end of the road, politically, for that popular individual. Is there not a strong chance that General MacArthur will do the same thing, even though he is quoted as saying to his Nebraska supporters, prior to April 13, that he did not propose to quit? After all, the now famous Eisenhower statement of renunciation applies with equal force to General MacArthur or any other military officer.

I said above that the various commentators did not sufficiently stress one of the most vital features of the Wisconsin primary. What I have in mind is the fact that the original centre and strength of the isolationist influence in this country was in the mid-West. That, of course, includes Wisconsin, Minnesota, the home of Harold Stassen and other states which are currently showing considerable interest in former Governor Stassen. Inasmuch as the latter is now and has been a strong internationalist, does it not seem that the old and powerful isolationist sentiment in the mid-West is slowly but surely dying out?

To be sure, the state of the world today makes it very difficult, if not impossible, to adhere to the isolationist point of view. There are some exceptions, including Col. McCormick, the Chicago publisher and a few other stubborn souls, but they appear to be losing their hold on the great masses of the people.

Massachusetts Delegation

My friend Bill Mullins of the Boston Herald has undoubtedly started something by his recent column, which I quote briefly:

"Assuming that the favorite sons are out of consideration and that the balloting is proceeding on the battle lines as we analyze them at this time, a good guess at how some of our delegates will vote follows: Gov.

Bradford (Stassen); Atty. Gen. Barnes (Taft); Senator Lodge (Vandenberg); Mayor Olander of Northampton (Stassen); Sinclair Weeks (Taft); Senator Saltonstall (Taft); Winfield A. Schuster (Dewey); Sheriff Dupuis of New Bedford (Dewey),

The first thing I noticed when this illuminating column came to my attention was that no attempt was made to forecast what two of the so-called Big Seven delegates would do. Reference, of course, is to the seven delegates-at-large from Massachusetts. Speaker Martin of North Attleboro and Mrs. Charles P. Howard, the National Committee woman from this state, were not mentioned by Mullins. The House Speaker is currently one of the dark-horse candidates for the G.O.P. nomination and the omission of his name is understandable. Why Mrs. Howard, the wife of the treasurer of Middlesex County, was not included in the list, is another matter. Quite possibly she declined to give the Herald any inkling of her views at present.

In my case some of my readers may not recall just who the Big Seven are, apart from Mrs. Howard and Speaker Martin, the list includes Messrs. Bradford, Saltonstall, Lodge, Barnes and Olander. Messrs. Weeks, Schuster and Dupuis will be delegates from their Congressional districts. Just for the record, once again Sinclair Weeks withdrew from the original Big Seven in the interests of party harmony at the time when he became definitely known that Attor-

Real Estate

The office of Charles J. Kinchla reports the sale of the single family dwelling located at 18 Westview terrace, West Newton for Charles A. McCarthy to Edward J. McGinnis.

Carley Realty reports the sale of the new brick front colonial house at 82 Woodward street, Newton Highlands, containing 6 rooms and 1-car attached garage, together with approximately 12,786 sq. ft. of land. James Farina, the builder, conveyed to Wilbur L. and Bertille L. Sheffield.

General Clarence A. Barnes would probably run for delegate at-large in any event. Therefore Mr. Weeks dropped down to a Congressional district level.

I now call to your attention the very interesting problem of the eventual vote of our Massachusetts delegation. ASSUMING that Mr. Mullins has come close to hitting the nail on the head. On the basis of his current guess, Senator Taft would have three votes from this state; Former Governor Harold Stassen would have two; Governor Dewey of New York would have two and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan would

Rep. Rawson
Speaker on Radio

Representative George E. Rawson, of Newton was the speaker on "This week in the Legislature" last Saturday. This program is a weekly presentation of Station WLAW on Saturday evening at 7 p.m.

Rawson spoke on the attempt of the legislature to provide a temporary Mayor for the City of Cambridge, in view of the difficulty that city is having in electing a mayor.

A proposed bill to pass the necessary legislation in this connection has been thwarted by a group that contends such action would interfere with the home rule of a city. Rawson stated that because it would require a 2/3 vote to pass the bill, the opposition would be strong enough to defeat it.

In Rawson's opinion, the city which has adopted Plan B is being denied home rule by those who oppose the proposed bill.

Red Cross College
Unit Formed at Lasell

It was announced today that a Red Cross College Unit has been formed at the Lasell Junior College, in Auburndale. For many years there were various Red Cross activities at the College, and the Unit has been formed to coordinate all these activities under Mrs. Riley F. Hampton, Chairman.

One of the most interesting projects attempted during the past years, has been the Community Gray Ladies. This was the pioneer in a program requested by the Board of Education.

At the Lasell Junior College, today, fifteen young ladies received certificates that attest their completion of the Community Gray Lady Course, undertaken as an extracurricular activity in connection with the Lasell Campus and Community Association program. This campus activity was formed to relate the campus to the community through social service, and is under the supervision of Miss Delia Davis, an instructor in sociology.

These young women have received training in all Gray Lady activities in addition have received guidance in the teaching of children who are confined to their homes on account of rheumatic fever, osteomyelitis and other diseases. All the children to be taught under this service have been referred by the Board of Education.

Mrs. Katherine Lee introduced Mrs. Frances B. Harris, Executive Director of the Newton Red Cross, who told that the College Unit has been approved by Red Cross and the College and that all the activities will stem from the student body. Then Mrs. E. Graham Bates, Director of Publicity and Information of the Newton Red Cross, told of Red Cross and its enormity and comprehensiveness, and that there is room for everyone to serve within its scope and thus help others. Through Red Cross Courses in Home Nursing, Nutrition, First Aid and Motor Service they will learn to be better women and home-makers. They might even take extra money, summers, by taking Life Saving Courses, and after completing the ten day course at the Aquatic School, would be eligible for a summer camp job. Through First Aid Courses they could help in any emergencies that might arise in their homes, on the streets, or in case of war. Disaster and First Aid Training are important to everyone, since we never know when disaster will strike, as we noted in Waltham recently and last year in Maine.

Lucile Melton, one of the recipients of the certificates gave a short talk about LCCA and how it became interested in working with Red Cross Gray Ladies. Their specific phase will be working with Home Bound Children. The Dorcas Club of the Second Baptist church held an evening of worship and fellowship on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the church vestry.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana Bartlett Fisher (Elizabeth Sarafan), formerly of Dickerman road were the recent guests of her mother, Mrs. Sarafan. Mr. Fisher is the regional manager of a P.W.A. airlines in Cairo, Egypt. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher flew by plane from Cairo and have left by plane for California where they will visit Mr. Fisher's parents in Blythe, Cal. Mr. Fisher's father is the nephew of Bishop Bromley Oxman, Methodist Bishop of New York.

The Flower Guild of the First Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Natalie Dieffenbach, 248 Elliot street, on Tuesday, April 13, at 8 p.m.

The Intermediate Youth Fellowship will meet in the Fellowship room of the First Methodist church at 4:30 p.m.

The new Cadillacs you see today on the streets and highways of America have been more than forty-five years in the making. Back of them is a long line of fine, pioneering ancestors—every one of which has made a basic contribution to Cadillac's development. Without this long background of experience, today's Cadillac could not be built—for character in a motor car is like that in a human being—it is a long time in the making.

If you are waiting for a new Cadillac—please be assured that every effort is being made to further production. Demand is so great, however, that some delay in delivery is still inevitable. But hold to your purpose! There is no substitute for a Cadillac.

600 Attend Auburndale Club's Presentation of "Arsenic and Old Lace"

Over 600 people crowded into committees was held in the lounge.

The next meeting of the Players will be held on Sunday, May 2 at which time a one-act play, "Skin Deep" will be given. The annual meeting and election of officers will follow the play. Mrs. Lendell Layman, Mrs. Willis Foss, and Mrs. Robert Woods are in charge of refreshments.

CARL BERGSTEDT

Maude Higgins and Mary Gray, despite their wholesale murders, endeared themselves to the audience with their sweet charm.

Edwin Terkelson as Dr. Harper, gave his usual competent performance, and Lendell Layman, as Teddy Roosevelt Brewster, delighted the spectators with his comedy lines. Officers Brophy and MacTavish, Edwin Hawkins and Charles McKenzie respectively, were most authoritative in their brass-buttoned uniforms, and Clifford Beecher, as Lieutenant Rooney, gave his part authority and conviction. Horace Hills in the role of the literary Officer O'Hara, kept the audience in gales of laughter.

Patricia Donovan, as Elaine Brewster, was a charming foil for Ernest Clark, Jr., who portrayed the leading man. Eric Kermath, as Mr. Gibbs, and Arnold Rood as Mr. Witherspoon, were excellent in bit parts. Jonathan "Boris Karloff" Brewster, enacted by Edmund Donovan was particularly outstanding, and Lester York as Dr. Einstein, was convincingly sinister.

Helen Ufford was prompter, and the set was designed and executed by Frederic Stearns. Helen Terkelson is president of the Players, and Carl Bergstedt is business manager.

At the concluding performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace" a Bendix washing machine was awarded Miss Irene Marchand of West Newton, and Ernest Clark, Jr. won the radio. A supper party for the cast and various Speaking of High School, how about tuning in and seeing what's been going on there, sociably speaking? There's Connie Ford, doing a modern dance in a production called "Carnival of Fun." I guess Modern Dancing must have been modernized since I was exposed to it. As I remember it, we could have used heat lamps and massages after each dance application. Upon my muscle! How we did ache! But they called it fun, even then. It looks as though Debbie Brush, Esther Fitten and Ruth Casten in the Newton High school gym class production will tell you it still is . . .

And here's a sneak preview: The Methodist Street Fair, sometime in May with all the ice cream, candy, balloons and fun you'd ever want to find! There's talk of a pony ride, too, and oh so many other wonderful things. You won't want to miss it, you really won't! So if you're anywhere between the ages of 3 and 103, just hitch up old Dobbins and come along!

Housing—

work on the part of the Mayor, the Newton Veterans' Housing Department, the city's solicitor, a special aldermanic committee which made a study of the city's housing needs, and the city's Veterans' Services Department which interviewed almost 1,000 veteran families who registered their need for adequate living accommodations.

Signing the contract for the mammoth housing undertaking for the city today were Mayor Lockwood and Carl Mullen, Commissioner of the Newton Veterans' Housing Department, and the other members of the 3-man Dept., who have been developing this program over the past three months—Warren Oliver and Frederick Hawkins.

Joseph F. Kelly, president of the Kelly Corporation signed for the construction company. He was accompanied by John Dobbs, former New England director of the National Housing Agency, and now a Vice President of the Kelly Corporation. Mr. Dobbs has assisted Mr. Kelly in negotiations with the city.

In certain respects the Newton housing plan is unique. Apart from being one of the largest housing programs to be undertaken for World War II veterans, the formula followed by the city in carrying out its objective of supplying homes for its veterans is unlike any plan heretofore used. Without going into the real estate business, the city has provided the necessary builder incentive to obtain erection of homes which can be bought through G.I. loans, without further subsidy, by a majority of Newton's veterans.

In the procedure followed by Newton, the contribution in the development made by the City means that several thousand dollars is added to the value of each home, and makes possible their purchase by veterans who otherwise would be priced out of the new home market.

Mayor Lockwood declared: "I am confident that Newton's veterans' housing project is not only the state's, but the country's number one housing development from the standpoint of the contractor, the development of the land and the protection of the veteran's interests."

According to the terms of the contract, the basic house will sell for $7,820. The addition of porches, breezeways and garages will add to the basic price on a graduated, agreed upon scale.

This price was arrived at by negotiations between the Veterans' Housing Dept., and the Kelly Corporation. The contract was negotiated after extensive exploration and research by the Department into other building concerns, building costs and the financial resources of Newton veterans.

It is expected the first homes will be ready for occupancy no later than August 1, 1948, and the entire development is scheduled to be completed by the end of the year.

The homes have three bedrooms, living room, kitchen-dinette, bath and utility room. One of the features of the houses will be thermostatically controlled radiant heat.

The site, which is being taken and prepared by the city, is wasteland made up largely of a series of gravel pits in the Oak Hill section of Newton. This location comprises approximately 140 acres. The site plan which was developed by Willard F. Pratt, Newton's Director of Public Works, is also unusual and expressive of advanced thinking in land and community planning.

The majority of houses are to face on walk-ways, with such community facilities as schools and shops to be located at radial points, thus eliminating the crossing of thoroughfares by children and others in the course of their daily pursuits.

Many thousands of yards of loam will be spread on the site, after which careful landscaping and planting will gradually develop this interior area into a park on which the houses will front.

Extra precautions have been taken to assure variety of exterior design in the new Oak Hill Community. In addition to the fact many of the homes will have porches or breezeways and garages, three different types of siding—clap-boards, cedar shingles and asbestos shingles—will be used to give the homes variation. Location on the lots and different roof treatments will also assure the absence of any suggestion of monotony.

The present Newton veterans' housing program was initiated as the result of findings by a special Aldermanic committee on housing, and fulfills Mayor Lockwood's promise to take action on the Veterans' housing problem.

This committee reported: "The provision of adequate housing for veterans—at prices they can afford—has been a major problem since the end of the war."

"The production of a sufficient quantity of new homes to overcome this short supply through ordinary speculative building has been hampered by the rising price spiral. This is demonstrated by the Federal Housing Administration's adjusted cost index which now stands at upwards of 175 as against 100 in 1940. This factor has made it impossible to produce homes at a cost comparable to pre-war standards, and thus a large number of veterans have been eliminated from the new home market."

"The rising price spiral has had a similar effect upon the cost of food, clothing and other necessities of life. People, however, must eat and keep themselves warm, but they can, by doubling up and living under other unfavorable circumstances, get along with inadequate living accommodations."

"The recent survey conducted by the Newton Veterans' Services Department demonstrated that housing conditions prevailing generally throughout the country are applicable to this city. Approximately 700 veterans and their wives took the trouble to come to the City Hall and register their requirements at an exhibit of proposed new homes presented by the Veterans' Services Department.

"The majority of these registrants indicated an ability to pay for homes in a price range of $7,500 to $8,500 provided such homes met their individual requirements as to space and amenities.

"These homes, however, can not be produced at the prices it was indicated so many veterans were able to afford without the fullest

Tabor School Camp Acquires River View Site in Needham

Young campers and their parents will be interested to learn that J. Tabor Browder, Director of the Tabor Boarding and Day Camps announces his organization has recently become incorporated.

The Tabor School Camp, Inc. has purchased a century old estate of fifteen acres overlooking the Charles River at 1191 Greendale Avenue, Needham, on Route 128, and is moving to its permanent location for the summer season. The estate is ideal for a summer school camp.

A new outdoor pool 75 x 150 feet is being constructed to accommodate all classes of swimmers. Campers who qualify in advanced swimming tests will have canoeing and boating.

In addition to outdoor sports of all kinds and crafts, the camp will emphasize music, dramatics, art and dancing in the spacious rooms of the Colonial mansion.

Many youngsters have attended the Tabor camps in other seasons, and Mr. Browder cordially invites former campers and their friends to visit the new location Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays from three to four p.m.

cooperation of the City of Newton."

As a result of these findings, the Newton Veterans' Housing Dept., created by an act of the Board of Aldermen last December, at the direction of Mayor Lockwood, went to work on the problem of developing a program to solve the city's housing situation as evidenced by the findings of the Aldermanic Committee.

At the request of the Mayor the city in January passed a loan authorization of $1,250,000 under Chapter 372 of the State Laws with which to acquire and prepare land on which the new homes for veterans would be erected. The Veterans' Housing Dept., then continued with its investigation of building concerns, placing particular emphasis on cost, ability to perform, and the speed with which the job could be carried out.

Among those present at the ceremonies were Governor Robert F. Bradford, Philip J. O'Connell of the Veterans' Administration, Senator Richard H. Lee, State Representatives John S. Whittemore, George E. Rawson, Howard Whitmore and Mrs. Margaret Spear; Alderman Wendell R. Bauckman, Sidney H. Baylor, Ernest G. Angevine and Kenneth E. Prior; Carl C. Mullen, Fred A. Hawkins and Warren Oliver of the Veterans' Housing Department; Rev. Francis X. Bransfield, Messrs. Joseph W. Bartlett, Carl F. Schipper, Jr., Arthur Swett, Lyman Whitcomb and Robert Tennant.

Also present were Commander King, Spanish War Veteran; Commander Gilbert Barr, V.F.W. Daley Post; Commander Charles Kirkpatrick, V.F.W. Amesbury Post; Representative of D.A.V., Representative of A.L. Carson Post, Vincent Maloney, Chairman, Am. Vets. Comm.; Edmund T. Dungan, Veterans' Services Agent; Norman Mitchell, Veterans' Services Department; William P. Mahoney, Acting Chief of Police; John L. Keating, Chief of Fire Department; Dr. Homer Anderson, Superintendent of Schools; Mr. Harold Wooster, Librarian; John D. Wright, Assessor; Albert H. MacAuslan, Assessor's Dept.; Sydney B. Holden, Assessor's Dept.; Arthur Campbell, Building Commissioner; Frank Grant, City Clerk; C. Evan Johnson, Recreation Commissioner; John D. Martin, Comptroller; Dr. Ernest M. Morris, Health Officer; Joseph J. Murray, Water Commissioner; Willard S. Pratt, Director of Public Works; James P. Reynolds, Welfare Agent; and Ashley O. THE NEWTON GRAPHICHealth Association Educator Reports On Conference

Back in Newton after attending the annual Eastern States Health Education Conference at the New York Academy of Medicine in New York City, Miss Ruth N. Brooks, health educator of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association, reported that one of the principal speakers at the two-day conference, April 1 and 2, was Dr. Frederick J. Stare, of Waban, international authority on food and nutrition.

Miss Brooks' report follows:

"Dr. Stare, who is professor of nutrition at Harvard School of Public Health, told the group of 200 health educators that Newton is carrying on a research project in nutrition education, using six Newton schools as the testing ground. Recognizing the fact that, although three-quarters of the population is not getting a 'good' diet, it is difficult to change the food habits of adults, this project aims at testing methods of encouraging teachers to influence the food habits of children."

"Dr. Stare was asked what effect the project was having on the parents of the Newton children. He said that newspapers, community organizations, and individuals were showing a great deal of interest, especially as a result of the work of a model health education institution, the Newton Nutrition Center.

"A nutrition expert from Toronto, Frederick F. Tisdall, M.D., told the health educators of a nutrition experiment with a group of expectant mothers in a Toronto clinic. All the mothers normally ate a rather poor diet, containing, for example, less than half the amount of milk, eggs, citrus fruit and meat that they needed for good health. Half the group were given supplementary food, enough for really good nutrition, up until the time their babies were born. Careful records were kept. At the end of the study, the doctors at the clinic observed that the mothers with the good diets were healthier, had shorter periods of labor, far fewer complications with child birth and had healthier children. In the group with poor pre-natal nutrition, three of the babies died. There were no deaths in the good-nutrition group."

"During the session on psychiatry, Dr. Paul V. Lemkau of Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. Daniel Rado, Director of the Psychoanalytic Clinic for Training and Research at Columbia University, stressed the social factors involved in any consideration of the personality and health of the individual patient.

"The discussion of epidemiology (the study of the causes of disease), led by Dr. Harry Stoll Mustard, Commissioner of Health, New York City, emphasized all factors that enter into epidemics and pandemics. The speakers explained how epidemiologists track down the causes of such phenomena as the epidemics of cholera in Asia."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Allen, formerly of Framingham, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a second daughter, Nancy Warfield Allen, on Thursday, April 1st in Fulton, New York. Sharing in the honors are grandparents, Mrs. Joseph D. Hayes of 74 Roundwood road, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Milton Allen, of Fulton, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bronstein (Muriel Weinreb) of Brookline, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Marilyn-Ann Bronstein on Saturday, March 27. Sharing in the honors as grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Weinreb of 61 Clements road and Mr. Max Bronstein of Mattapan.

Mr. George St. Claire has purchased for a permanent home, The Central Club of Central Church will present the play "Dear Ruth", Friday and Saturday evenings at eight o'clock.

Newton Notables

By SARAH SHIELDS PFEIFFER

WENDELL R. BAUCKMAN

The seeming paradox of finding a large country house easily accessible to business and shops has been solved in a most satisfactory way by the Wendell R. Bauckman's of 336 Dedham St., Newton Centre.

In addition the Bauckmans have an amazing number of hobbies—collecting stamps and antiques, raising flowers, vegetables, fancy chickens, racing pigeons, bantams, pheasants, dogs, cats, parakeets, canaries and a saddle horse. Add to this list long service in civic enterprises, topped by being President of Newton's Board of Aldermen, and you'll agree that Wendell Bauckman is most certainly a man of distinction in our city!

It was on a rainy Sunday afternoon that I visited the Bauckman home. Theirs is a charming, compact frame house, shielded by evergreens and close to winding Dedham street in the Oak Hill section. But walk around to the back, as I did, and you have a vista that slopes gently way, way back to a distant cluster of trees. This open sweep is a perfect place for racing pigeons to land after a long flight! And it was chosen with such a purpose when the Bauckmans built there 17 years ago. They came as pioneers in the second generation in this region that is only eight miles from Boston and two miles from a shopping center.

Wendell had been born in Boston but his family moved to Waban in 1916. He attended the Roger Walcott grammar school, the old wooden structure that preceded the present Angier school. At Newton High he held the high school championship in hurdles for the track team. He also held the state record for six years. Then he went to Norwich University at Northfield, Vermont, which is known as "the West Point of New England." He joined the Theta Chi fraternity. Later he studied business administration at Boston University. And now he is in the leather business with The Gress Pfeifer Tanning Co. of Mass., at 179 South street, Boston.

Mrs. Bauckman is the former Marjorie Blanchard of Cambridge, niece of "Wen's" former next door neighbor, the late Mrs. Alexander Caldwell. She is also a graduate of the Garland School of Homemaking and of Katharine Gibbs. Hers is the saddle horse, "Charming Choice," a tall, spirited steed that is stabled in part of the garage. And hers is the hobby of collecting fine antiques such as the pie crust table, Italian credenza and Grandfather clocks.

The two sons have hobbies of their own. Richard, at 18, is a cadet and member of Theta Chi at Norwich duplicating his father's record. During the school term his father takes care of Dick's racing pigeons but when college lets out Dick will again take over. He is a member of the Watch City Racing Pigeon Club that races birds from as far away as Detroit.

Theodore is 16 and at Newton High where he has just been elected to the National Honor Society. Ted liked his father's hobby of raising Silver Pencilled Wyandottes but wanted a different breed. So he chose Golden Laced Wyandottes. They are beautiful!

ly colored birds with lustrous feathers.

Wendell, vice president of the Greater Boston Homing Pigeon Concourse, has a particular fondness for pigeons. As we walked from one pen to another he said with a quiet smile, "I estimated once that we were feeding 200 mouths a day, including the children. So you can see that, in order for us to take part in all these hobbies, we needed such a location as this!"

Wendell has the country gentleman's love of tweeds. He's quite tall with an easy, graceful carriage. His face is slender, his hair brown and his lean fingers frequently tamp tobacco into his pipe.

The war years took him away most of the time. He was consultant, then promoted to chief, of the leather division in the Office of Price Administration in Washington. Members of this division generally lived at the Burlington Hotel in Washington. Now fifty of these men throughout the country call themselves "The Burlington Crew" and meet monthly. Wendell serves as treasurer. He estimates that he has flown over 100,000 miles and traveled over 25,000 miles by train in commuting home weekends during the war. Now he likes flying so much that he prefers "to go everywhere by air."

His introduction to civic affairs began some 12 years ago by serving as director when the Oak Hill section decided on an Improvement Association. He's worked continuously for the Red Feather Services. In Community Chest campaigns he has been chairman of the residential division and of the Advance Gifts division. He's a faithful worker for the Red Cross and Past Master of the Dalhousie Lodge of Masons. Another interest has been Boy Scout work. He was in charge of Pack 27 and a member of Troop 5 for two years.

Since 1942 Wendell has been on the Board of Aldermen, attending all but one meeting in six years! In '46 and '47 he was vice-president. He's served on many committees, including finance, claims and rules, public works, veterans' services, street traffic and legislation. As the new president of the Board he knows from long experience that its members spend far more time on the city's business than many

For the purpose of starting a campaign to raise funds for renovation of the auditorium and add a new parish house, the First Church of Newton, established in 1664, held a parish dinner last Sunday evening. This is the ninth major building undertaking during the 284 years of the church's history.

Dr. Ernest Hatch Wilkins, President Emeritus of Oberlin College, acted as toastmaster and president Charles F. Phillips of Bates College was the principal speaker. His subject was "Education Is Your Business," and he particularly stressed the common concern which the church and the college share in the development of youth.

Lucius E. Thayer spoke on behalf of the Memorial Fund Committee.

Dr. Otto E. Aufranc, 18 Fairfield street, Newtonville, and Dr. Carroll B. Larson, 287 Chestnut street, West Newton, received the Knights Cross, First Class, of St. Olav's order, for outstanding service to Norway. Other physi-

Seven Thousand In Attendance At Boy Scouts' Exposition Here

Approximately 7000 persons attended the Norumbega Council Boy Scouts' Exposition, "This is Scouting", at the Newton High School last Saturday.

Visiting Scouters from 20 other Scout Councils from all over New England were present. More than 1500 Scouts, Cubs, Senior Scouts and their leaders took part in the show. Arthur Veinott, General Chairman, opened the Exposition and commended the Troops, Packs, and Senior Units for their displays. Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood stated that the exposition was on a high plane and said that the dramatization of the work of the Newton and Wellesley agencies was of educational value to the communities and should be repeated at regular intervals.

Council President, F. Brittain Kennedy, asserted that splendid results were achieved after months of preparation by the Exposition Committee and the Units of the Council. He acted Annual revision of the voting lists by the City Clerk's office reveals that 38,127 citizens are eligible to vote at the primaries next Tuesday. This is a decrease of about 2000 from the number eligible at the time of the city election last fall.

On January 1 of this year, the voting list showed 39,965, of which 4561 were dropped in the revision due to death, marriage of women or persons moving away. An addition of 2362 who moved within the city and women who are married and re-registered under their new names, and 361 who have registered since the first of the year, offset somewhat the total number of names removed from the list.

Polls will open at 10 a.m. and close at 7 p.m., instead of 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., which are the usual hours for voting here. Polling places have been reduced from 26 to 15 for next Tuesday's election.

The thanks of the Newton Federation is extended to all who helped both by selling and buying, especially to the Newton Centre Women's Club for the use of its club house.

people realize. "The Aldermen serve without pay and because of affection and pride in Newton," he explains simply. "A big problem right now is our 280 miles of streets. We are on the third year of a ten-year program during which every street will be repaired or reconstructed. The immediate problem of the street department is gathering up the sand before it clogs up the catch basins."

His friends at City Hall like to josh Wendell a bit about being a self appointed game warden in Oak Hill. "But all my life I've been interested in wild bird life," he says. "I've had a state permit to raise wild pheasant. The state tells me when to liberate them. Naturally I try to keep people from shooting them when the fall season opens. Last winter I used I don't know how many pounds of chicken and wild bird seed trying to keep them alive. I often counted seven hen pheasants in our yard at one time during January and February."

But for all their good-natured teasing about pheasants, the other members on the Board of Aldermen know full well that Wendell Bauckman lives up to his belief that "everyone should take some interest in his community." And in his case the "interest" has been rewarded with one of the most responsible positions in our entire city government.

ton directly with the various proposals for spending and borrowing public funds in large amounts, and to give them an opportunity to express their views and ask questions concerning the major building commitments to be undertaken by the city in the immediate future.

"We believe it to be of the utmost importance for Newtonians to know about these things straight from the men who are responsible," stated Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., executive secretary of the association, "for what is decided now will largely determine and set the pattern of the city's debt for years to come."

Newall Club Guest Meeting To Be Held Monday Afternoon

Opposition Expressed On Increasing Tax Limit

At a public hearing Tuesday night the Newton Board of Aldermen enacted a new tax limit ordinance which, exclusive of State charges, sets the tax limit at $32.00. The former legal limit, set in 1939, was $28.00.

Opposition was expressed by Sidney S. Von Loeseks, president of the Newton Taxpayer's Association and Lorenz F. Muther Executive Secretary of the Association, who speaking as a private citizen, objected to the new ordinance, year to year and suggested that the ordinance be reworded so that the public would be informed as to the need of the change. The ceiling, he stated, was meaningless as it could be changed at the will of the aldermen.

Members are reminded that tickets for the annual luncheon will be ready at this meeting.

Newton Community Club

The Newton Community Club is sponsoring another series of "current events" lectures for 1948-49 from October to March.

Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor will again be the speaker. Her talks are most instructive and filled with facts that we all need to know today in this rapidly changing era. Many people in Newton have found it much easier to attend these lectures given in the First Presbyterian Church parlor on Fridays at 10:15 a.m. than to go to Boston to hear them. The subscription tickets are going fast, so please apply soon to Mrs. Thompson Stone, 150 Washington street.

Not An Elevating Recreation

Merchants who make a concerted attempt to have the area surrounding their store properties kept neat should be complimented for their civic interest and in following this daily custom, are entitled to sufficient protection from vandalism, probably youthful, so that their efforts will not go for naught.

Of late, it has been brought to our attention, that many driveways and service entrances to business establishments are cluttered with broken bottles and other debris, particularly in the Newton Corner section of the city. In addition, rubbish barrels have been found deliberately tipped over and the contents spilled on sidewalks and streets, all of which make for unsightly appearances.

Without doubt, such actions are perpetrated by youths, who for want apparently of finer outlets of adolescent enthusiasm, give vent to their energy in a manner not befitting their training.

Newton prides itself on its cleanliness and its merchants share this justified pride with that of property owners. There can be no question that a stop should be made to these youthful pranks. Enforcing authorities should now cease to be lenient in such matters. The practice has too long been allowed to exist.

An Able Man For Important Office

Assessment of property values in every community is a matter which requires a thorough knowledge of the community, its geographical centers, its potential possibilities and many other factors.

The duties of any competent board of assessors is extremely important and a very necessary adjunct to the progress and growth of a community. It has long been recognized that the functions and duties of a board of assessors is probably one of the most, if not the greatest, endeavors of any official board or administrative works. Essentially, every board of assessors is responsible for raising sufficient revenue to pay the cost of city government yet for all that, it must be done in a fair and impartial manner.

Recently Mayor Lockwood appointed as chairman of the Newton Board of Assessors a man, who by his training and his experience, gives to Newton property owners the assurance of fair and equitable assessment.

John D. Wright, as former member and chairman of the State Appellate tax board, has had the opportunity to judge and evaluate all types of property, real, personal and business, and this unqualified experience will give to Newton a Board of Assessors which may well establish an enviable record throughout the State.

The State Board of Tax Appeals began work in 1931 and that year Governor Allen appointed Mr. Wright to a six-year term. Governor Curley, at the end of that term, substituted a member of the council and made Mr. Wright the senior legal counsel for the board, a position which he held for only a few months. The General Court in 1937 reorganized this court with the title appellate tax board, and Governor Hurley named Mr. Wright for the short term of two years, and in 1939 he became its chairman.

Modest, able, faithful and scrupulously correct in all his dealings in public and private life, Newton gains through his appointment, a valuable public servant.

Long Range Housing Program

One thing is certain—the approach of the 80th Congress to the housing problem is going to be a different story. In the last decade most any brain trust's idea was given a whirl—and so were the taxpayers.

In fact, so many of these whirls were going at one time that eleven agencies and bureaus were handling housing. Yet little or nothing was being done to establish a sound housing policy. Most of the effort was toward public housing which in no way met the American demand to live the American way.

Meanwhile, Republicans in both houses of Congress had to sit and watch the housing dilemma grow worse through the years of New Deal tinkering with crackpot ideas. They could protest, but they were a minority.

But, if one believes that there is some good in everything, then the New Deal housing nightmare can be credited with convincing the Republicans of the need for a sound approach to the problem.

So, when the first Republican Congress convened in its very first session in January, 1947, it inaugurated a thorough study of housing.

Fully aware that some elements of the populace, habituated to the temporary and erratic sedatives of New Deal, would find it difficult to understand the use of care and study in reaching a solution, the Republican majority withstood the clamor for another dose of New Deal opiates. The Congress proceeded to lay long-range housing plans, and thus for the first time attacked the heart of the problem.

Committees from both houses worked to produce the most comprehensive study of housing needs ever made in this country.

Those committees visited every section of the country and conducted hearings in 33 cities to compile the data necessary for sound legislation. The joint effort of the two houses of Congress brought forth the testimony of 1,286 witnesses.

By this means, Congress has short-circuited the housing bureaus and agencies, some of which have been as active in producing an appearance of "housing crises" and "critical areas" as they have been in producing houses. In past years this practice had brought forth copious housing funds from the U. S. Treasury. Happily, all this has come to an end.

Now, the Republican Congress is ready to act on a long-range housing program which will have been born of rational consideration.

It will mark another stride toward the Congress' goal of bringing order out of chaos—and an end to the regime of a succession of unsuccessful housing administrators and expediters.

At the request of the State Department, Michael Borth sent a money order for $100 for the air passage of his son from Bucharest to Prague. The Department was to deliver it overseas. This request was shuttled by messenger between three State Department buildings, eight blocks apart, a total of five times to be read, reviewed, catalogued, and receipted by 35 persons.

In his book "Laughing with Congress," Senator Wiley of Wisconsin calls Washington "The City Bureau."

Politics With Color

by P. W. C.

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note).

Republican Nominee

Regular readers of this column may recall that I predicted some weeks ago, long before the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries, that it did not seem to be in the cards for young Harold Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota, to capture the G.O.P. nomination for President this June. That was not a snap judgment, but was based on a careful study of many factors entering into the whole picture.

What is the situation today, after Stassen has done an almost superhuman job and run away with the two vital primaries referred to above? The very same political experts who gave either General MacArthur or Governor Dewey of New York the best chance to win in Wisconsin and who also were inclined to pick Senator Taft of Ohio as the Nebraska winner, are still loath to give Stassen the best chance to win the nomination. Why? Simply because the cold, hard facts are that the G.O.P. Old Guard, which may die but which never surrenders has never warmed up to the former Minnesota Governor and never will. Now, this Old Guard may not be able to dictate the nomination outright, but it can possibly have a veto power over the selection of any candidate whom it will not support, even if only half-heartedly. And remember two points in this connection, please. First of all, Stassen is Wendell Willkie, who was able to stampede the G.O.P. convention in 1940. This is said without the slightest disrespect to the present contender, who is a very fine and tremendously capable performer. Furthermore, he has shown unusual vote-getting power, which is something even the Old Guard respects profoundly.

Secondly, Willkie was favored by the element of surprise, coming up with a rush at the last minute, when hundreds of thousands of Republicans all over the country scarcely knew his name, let alone his ability and business reputation. Far from being favored by the surprise feature, the Minnesota gentleman is handicapped by having been an active candidate for the nomination for about two years. In politics it is frequently true that a man who announces his candidacy at a very early date is placing himself in an unfavorable position. He is out front, where everybody can take a shot at him. Also, Stassen has been so engagingly frank about stating his position on any and all issues, domestic and foreign, that he has laid himself open to attack on the part of those who hold different views.

I now hear some of you saying that that is a fine thing and that that is precisely the way candidates should behave, especially in the selection of a Presidential candidate. On that point I agree with you. However, let it not be forgotten that it is the Republican delegates who will make the nomination and NOT those who respond to Gallup polls and similar affairs. It is, I think, a fair statement to say that the great majority of the nearly eleven hundred delegates will be staunch Republicans, of whom a substantial number will be quite conservative. Many will be present or past office-holders who will feel some slight obligation to the present leaders of the Republican party.

I refer, in part, to the members of the G.O.P. National Committee, the chairmen of the forty-eight State Committees and others of like prominence. Many of these leaders want no part of a forthright liberal like Harold Stassen, especially when he has always been an out-and-out internationalist. How do you think Col. Robert McCormick, the Chicago publisher, is going to view the nomination of ANY candidate who has no trace of isolationism in him. The Colonel is probably the most powerful isolationist in the country and you will find him behind Senator Taft, in all probability.

Of course, the real reason why so many Republicans with wide influence will be against Harold Stassen is that he would be altogether too independent as President. He would do all his own thinking and would be the exact opposite of the unfortunate Warren Harding, a typical Old Guard choice. To a lesser extent, Governor Dewey suffers from the same handicap. There is, however, this difference between the two men. Dewey would be expected "to be reasonable" on occasion. After all, as Governor of the largest state in the country he has undoubtedly found it necessary to compromise from time to time.

What does this lead me to?

Simply this. The conservative element in the party want Senator Taft.

He "belongs". A few months ago, when it appeared that almost any respectable candidate of the old-fashioned type like Mr. Harding, would find it impossible to defeat a rather weak Democrat like our harassed President, the odds were strong that the G.O.P. would select the most powerful vote-getter, after it could lay its hands on, at the time, that man was General Eisenhower, who was coldly frank to the proposition. The G.O.P. was quite frankly, in a jam. Taft would be a terrible vote-getter, and still is, for that matter. Dewey was not really wanted by the powers that be and Stassen was "viewed with alarm". It looked like a dark-horse. Now, however, Mr. Truman has lost so much popularity that the Stassen vote-getting ability does not loom so large and it seems as though even a Taft might win over the President.

With that prophecy I am in entire agreement and have been for some weeks now.

Lastly, we must also watch Speaker Martin of this state, even though I am not so sure of this gentleman's chances as I am of Senator Vandenberg's. The latter, in my book, is far and away the bigger and broader-gauged public servant.

Presidential Primary

Be sure to vote on Tuesday, April 27 at the Presidential Primary at your regular voting place.

You have probably heard very little about this primary, partly because the party leaders have made no unusual effort to get out the vote. You do know, however, how extremely important an election like this can be.

All you have to do is to read about the great excitement in Wisconsin and Nebraska, where the voters had an opportunity to mark a cross against the name of some of their candidates for the President's nomination next June. Unfortunately, we in Massachusetts were denied this privilege by our State Legislature, as was the case in 1944. However, as host and welcomed presidents and other visitors from Scout Councils of New England. Scout Commissioner Edward C. Michaud was also in the receiving line.

The outdoor phase of the show was in the Drill Shed, the highlight of the event, where outdoor camps were set up; "Fizz" Wagons raced, Radar was demonstrated. Air Scouting was dramatized, including the operation of a navigator-trainer, and the Sea Scouting program was presented.

Dramatizations of Community Chest Red feather agencies' outstanding activities were presented in the Gymnasium by the Newton District Nursing Association, the Newton Nutrition Center, the Rebecca Pomroy House, The West Newton Community Center, the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, the Girl Scouts of Newton and Wellesley, the Newton YMCA, and the Boston Science Museum, the Newton Police and Fire Departments, and Barron's Store of West Newton.

A sewing exhibition on how to lengthen last summer's dresses was presented by Janet Sorenson, Jeanette Altero and Anna Gentile under the direction of Miss Phyllis Schipani of Pomroy House. The groups explained the balanced meals of the day, under the direction of Miss Olga Harcovitz. The girls were Jean Gorman, Constance Miller, Mary Ridge, Judith Stanley, Barbara Segreve and Jane Fagan.

Interviews with booth exhibitors were broadcast from the exposition floor by Station WBZ. "Chuck" Crosby of WCOP, broadcast his weekly High School Sports program from the scene. The history of Wellesley High School Sports was presented with Wellesley Coach Ted Stevens. Mr. Crosby also broadcast the daily "Sports Spotlight" program from the grounds. A half-hour program of personal interviews with booth attendants and Committee Members was presented by Radio Station WCRB who also presents Norumbega's regular radio program.

"Outstanding" was the unanimous expression of this event with its variety and live interest in the Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting, and Senior Scouting exhibits. The exposition closed with a "Good Night" from General Chairman Veinott and the "Scoutmaster's Benediction" by Scout Executive Robert E. Pettit.

The program was assisted by the Massachusetts Audubon Society, Raytheon-Submarine Signal Co., Henry Oken Sporting Goods Store, Everett Brooks, architect; Newton National Guard Units, Borden Television Co., and

Used Fat Helps You and the World

Experts say the world today needs almost twice as much meat; more than double the milk and dairy products and fats and oils.

American women can contribute to postwar economic welfare by conserving used kitchen fats, scraping every frying-pan, skinning meat, melting down meat and table scraps. Help overcome the world-wide shortage of fats and oils by selling your used fat to your meat dealer.

W. E. Rich, Treasurer of Shawmut Association do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

W. E. Rich, Treasurer.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 16th day of April, 1948.

By SARAH SHIELDS PFEIFFER

MRS. HOWARD M. LE SOURD

One of the most significant things about Mrs. Howard M. LeSourd of 206 Waverly avenue, Newton, is that her listing in "Who's Who in Massachusetts" begins with the simple designation of "housewife." But national honors continue to fall on the shoulders of this capable woman. In addition to having guests from all over the world, running a gift shop for philanthropic purposes, entertaining officially for her husband and unofficially for her two children, Mrs. LeSourd received two more honors in April. First, she was re-elected president of the Professional Woman's Club in Boston. And second, she is the only woman delegate from New England to the Quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist church which is now meeting in Boston.

This career has been facilitated by Lucile LeSourd's skillful way of running a big 15-room house and her ease in cooking—whether it be for the many Newton friends of her children or a luncheon for 200 women this week. Yet she has mastered the mechanics of a hospitable home so thoroughly that domesticity takes no undue portion of her time.

Mrs. LeSourd is a short, plump woman with a dynamic personality. Her gray hair, matching eyes and her ever ready smile create a picture of charm and friendliness. Her warmth of personality and democratic diversity of interests shine through even a short conversation. They are characteristics that win friends and hold them through the years.

Travel has been so much a part

Slightly More Than 2 Percent Of Voters Went To Primary

With only slightly more than 2 percent of the eligible voters going to the polls Tuesday, a total of 824 ballots were cast throughout the entire city. It was one of the lightest primary elections in recent years. Tuesday, 732 Republicans went to the polls and 92 Democrats. In 1944, 1,075 Republicans and 261 Democratic ballots were cast.

Although a three-state contest among Democratic delegates at large was on the ballot, only 92

Plans To Eliminate Mosquito Breeding Area Are Approved

A plan to eliminate Newton's worst mosquito breeding areas has been approved by Mayor Lockwood according to Willard S. Pratt, Director of Public Works.

"During the past two years," said Mayor Lockwood, "I have had many inquiries as to what Newton was doing to combat mosquitoes. This plan looks like part of the answer to our problem."

The plan includes the installation of a sump pump which will drain Purgatory and Scribner Swamps, now the worst mosquito breeding lands in Newton.

The particular species of mosquito which breeds in these swamps is the Mansonia perturbans, the larvae of which breed in the swamp bottoms which cannot be reached by spray insecticides. Airplane spraying was used against the adult mosquitoes here with some success but was completely ineffective against the larvae.

"I have been told by Dr. Morris, our Director of Public Health," continued the Mayor, "that these particular mosquitoes are ferocious biters and travel

Mayor Hopes Present Tax Rate Will Be Maintained in 1948

At a meeting of the Newton Real Estate Board at the YMCA on April 29, Geo. W. Bryson, presiding, Mayor Lockwood stated that it was his hope that the tax rate for 1948 would be held at or close to last year's rate of $32.00. This would keep Newton in the enviable position of having one of the lowest tax rates of any city in the state.

A Plan Sure To Be Appreciated

In approving plans to eliminate Newton's worst mosquito breeding areas, Mayor Lockwood is taking an action which is sure to meet with approval by all residents of Newton, come the hot, sultry days of summer which cannot be far distant albeit furnace fires are still burning.

Summer is a time when everyone enjoys the out-doors either reclining in easy, comfortable chairs on the porch or lawn in order to obtain coolness and relaxation. Summer, in fact, is probably the time of the year enjoyed and welcomed by the greatest majority of people.

Yet summer and its attendant delightfulness can become miserable, particularly where mosquitoes abound and you can bathe yourself in smelly preparations to your hearts desire but the little mosquito just refuses to be bothered with your preparedness.

The only way to get rid of the pesky mosquito is to eliminate its source and in making plans to strike, and strike hard, their breeding places, the city of Newton, through its officials, are attempting to make summer time a more enjoyable season and Newton a more comfortable place in which to reside.

A Campaign Which Merits Support

The "Fight Cancer" fund raising campaign which is now in progress is one which should merit the support of every Newton resident to the best of their financial ability. No campaign, perhaps, is worthy of more whole-hearted support. It is necessary to obtain funds to carry out research work to combat this terrible disease as well as to alleviate the pain of those already suffering with it.

Throughout the cancer clinics of the state an incessant quest is being conducted to determine why some cancer patients are helped by hormones and why others are not. Chairman Charles A. Lamb of the Newton "Fight Cancer" campaign committee states and if for no other reason, Newton should over-subscribe its quota of $20,000.

"The hormonal phenomena is leading those active in the cancer control program from the laboratory to the clinic and back again," Chairman Dr. Lamb said. "Yet this is only one phase of the broad-scale attack on this scourge of our nation."

To continue this all-important work which may some day open the door to the cause and cure of cancer, we must all pledge our support with our contributions. Newton has always responded to all worth-while appeals and in this campaign we feel sure the citizens of this community will respond, and respond well.

Several Unusual Features Embodied In R. E. Jarvis Appliancecenter and Television Studio in Brookline

Several unusual features are embodied in the new R. E. Jarvis Appliancecenter and Television Studio which opened today at 361 Boylston street, Brookline. One of the most interesting is the private television viewing room. This room is attractively designed and decorated to resemble a living room and G. E., Philco, R.C.A., and other famous television sets may be seen.

Dennis L. Satterfield, manager of the new store, stated, "We thought it would be more helpful for the buyer of a television set to make his decision if he could see the different models in their natural setting, the home." "We also endeavored to follow this same principle in setting up our laundry room in the basement. Here we have nationally known washers such as Blackstone, Thor and Westinghouse in actual operation. Interposed in this room are ironers and dryers of various makes. Prospective customers are invited to bring in a few pieces of soiled clothing. They may wash, dry and iron them using one or all of the machines. This will give them the opportunity to compare the actual operation of this time-saving appliance and to make up their minds which one is more suitable for them, depending on their needs and their budget."

Another interesting feature is the all electric cabinet kitchen. This kitchen was designed with one thought in mind—to show the housewife how she can save hundreds of steps daily and many valuable minutes in preparing meals and performing her kitchen duties. "We included every type of electrical appliance that would help to emancipate the lady of the house from tedious routine," stated R. E. Jarvis, treasurer of the new firm. There is an electric range with a lifetime porcelain enamel finish with automatic controlled heating units that will aid even the novices in preparing meals that are delicious. There is an automatic washer next to the sink that can be used for washing clothes and converted into a dish-washing unit in less than two minutes; a calcinator that eliminates all waste problems with the flick of a button; there is, of course, an electric heater; a refrigerator with ample freezer storage and shelf space that's really a honey." The new R. E. Jarvis Appliancecenter and Television Studio is modern in design; the main show room being attractively decorated in a motif of pastel green. There are gas and electric ranges, refrigerators, radios, and hundreds of other appliances on display.

In the rear of the store, which is located on Boylston street at Cypress street, there is a large parking area where customers may leave their cars and proceed study.

Course to Provide First Aid and Accident Courses

Young people with Senior Life Saving Certificates, and 18 years of age and over, are eligible to attend the Aquatic School at Camp Kiwanis, Hansen, Mass. The fee for this course is $40, and includes First Aid and Accident Prevention, and other phases of safety education. It further in formation is required, call the Newton Red Cross Chapter House, L.A. 7-6000.

Archbishop Cushing Charity Fund to Be Aided Here

Bishop Cheverus Assembly Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, is sponsoring a drive to raise $10,000 for the Archbishop Cushing Charity Fund. His Excellency, Richard J. Cushing, D.D., Archbishop of Boston, is honorary chairman and Henry Brennan, general chairman.

The Newton committee is headed by John F. Gallagher, John Gordon and George Oulette.

The Merrymakers of the New Church met at the home of Mary Swanton, 22 George street, Sunday evening for dessert and may leave their cars and proceed study.

Newton in the Past

From the files of the Newton Graphic

55 Years Ago — April 28, 1893

NEWTON—Mr. P. A. Murray has just completed an open cabriolet, one of the handsomest two seated carriages seen on the street this season. It was built to order, with deep roomy seats and high well padded backs and looks the perfection of comfort.

It is a very easy running vehicle and would not require a heavy horse to move it. It is painted in black, picked out with red, and the fortunate owner is envied by all who have seen it, so much so that several gentlemen have made overtures to buy it of Mr. Murray.

NEWTONVILLE—The building activity here this Spring has never been excelled. Twelve new houses are to be put up at once, ranging in cost from $4000 to $10,000.

WEST NEWTON—The new City Hall project is being boomed just now. It is proposed to build a substantial structure to cost in the vicinity of $200,000. For several years, the necessity of a new building has been apparent and it has been talked up at various times but to date never taking any shape. One reason for the delay has been the varying opinions concerning the best location. The present building is located here and the residents would like to have the new building.

There followed an interesting and informative discussion of the blood program, its purpose, objective and suggestions for better educating the public to the magnitude and necessity of the program. It was brought out how important this blood program is to all members of the community. It was discussed how various communities around Boston have recruited donors and the success of various methods. It was agreed that radio, newspaper and all media which bring the purpose and the importance of this program before the public should be utilized. On the whole it was felt that the public welcomed the program when they fully understood it and that the greatest need at the present time would be for greater and more informative public information.

50 Years Ago — April 29, 1898

NEWTON—Druggist F. A. Hubbard has an exhibition in his store window in Associates Block over 100,000 prescriptions which represents the number compounded by him and his predecessors. The papers hanging on large files look rather unique and attract considerable attention.

AUBURNDALE—An interesting method for the study of domestic animal life has been introduced in the Ash street kindergarten. Several of the children have brought their little pets to school and the teacher has carefully explained the habits of each animal.

NEWTON'S QUOTA—Newton's soldiers are ready for the front. The call to arms has but to be sounded and within an hour's time a full company of 61 men together with 44 recruits will assemble at the Armory for "further orders."

35 Years Ago — May 2, 1913

THE first ball of the Newton Catholic Club was held last Friday evening in the State Armory West Newton with about 400 in attendance. The guest of honor was Hon. Frank J. Donahue, secretary of the Commonwealth. The grand march was led by president and Mrs. Joseph J. Curran.

The Newton committee is headed by John F. Gallagher, John Gordon and George Oulette.

The Merrymakers of the New Church met at the home of Mary Swanton, 22 George street, Sunday evening for dessert and may leave their cars and proceed study.

Politics With Color

by P. W. C.

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note).

Presidential Primary

As this column is being written on the day of the Presidential Primary it is, of course, impossible to comment on the results. However, it is in order to remark that never in my life have I witnessed such a pathetic example of public apathy. Up until noon today (Tuesday), eight votes had been cast in Ward 3, Precinct 2, a district which justly prides itself on its showing at all state and national elections. It is practically routine to have 90-92 per cent of the vote come out.

What was wrong with the setup this year? My readers are doubtless tired of having me harp on my old theme of the unwise manipulations of party leaders who prevented us all from recording our Presidential choices. Only last night a public-spirited lady in Ward 2 phoned me and after saying that she would vote today, indicated her great dissatisfaction with the tactics of the political leaders in the state. It seemed obvious to her that there might be a turnout of at least 20 or 25 per cent if the voters had been given any real excuse for going to the polls. That is undoubtedly correct.

Two final thoughts on this general topic. Except for a few brief comments next week concerning the actual statistics and any unexpected defeat of some prominent individual in the delegate race, your columnist will have little to say. I shall, however, be listening closely for any complaint, public or private, from party leaders who are disturbed over the tragically small turnout of voters. They should be the last people to utter a word of protest.

My other thought is this. To many observers, regardless of party affiliation, one of the outstanding features of the current Presidential campaign throughout the country is the profound interest being shown everywhere by those who are hearing and meeting candidate Stassen. The experts have been baffled. Stassen does so many things all wrong; that is to say, from the viewpoint of your typical professional politician. He speaks and acts "on his own," quite regardless of tradition and precedent. Theoretically, he should be getting nowhere fast. Practically, he is apparently still moving up on the ladder of public approval. This does not mean that he has a strong chance of being nominated at Philadelphia. He may still be a bad gamble for the betting fraternity. However, the point I want to start driving home today is simply this: there are millions of men and women in every state who have a feeling that Harold Stassen is not just one more slightly shop-worn politician who wants to go places. He is younger, more progressive, more frank, more approachable, more democratic and much more human in his relationships. He is like a breath of fresh air coming into a stuffy, smoke-filled room. No wonder the average voter warms to him. Watch him from now on. He may become your next Vice President. He is a better bet for that spot than he is for the Presidential post.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY STUDY

One of the really important things our Legislature has been studying for many weeks is the report of the Special Commission established to make a further investigation and study relative to the prevention of child delinquency. This commission was headed by Senator J. Elmer Callahan of Salem and Rep. Henry D. Winslow of Cambridge. Both are Republicans. In addition, there were three other members of the Legislature and five men and women chosen for their knowledge of the problem under discussion.

One of the chief recommendations is the creation of a state board to be known as The Youth Service Board, consisting of First Baptist Church in Newton.

May 6 brings us to our last newsbit before the spot shots: And it is on this date that Gunnar Westlin, Professor of Church History at the University of Uppsala, in Sweden, will address the group convening in Noyes Hall on Newton Theological Hill at that time. This interesting lecture is open to the public, so for up-to-the-minute data on what's going on, suppose you stroll over to the "Hill" and hear what a noted editor, professor and authority on church and state relations in modern Europe, has to say about it.

The home of Mrs. J. W. Watts was a scene for an interesting meeting recently: it was the talk of Mrs. Herbert Gezork on her recent experiences in Germany where Dr. Gezork, who is a professor of Social Ethics, was head of the religious affairs staff of the army of occupation in Berlin. This talk was given for the members of the Kelsey Circle of First Baptist Church in Newton.

One of the chief recommendations is the creation of a state board to be known as The Youth Service Board, consisting of First Baptist Church in Newton.

a twelve mile radius. Thus, they constitute a nuisance not only in the immediate vicinity of these swamps but in all parts of the city as well."

The draining of these swamps will be accomplished by installing a pump at the lowest point where the swamp water will be pumped through a causeway into the Charles River. The City of Newton is to build the pump house and install the pump while the East Middlesex Mosquito Control Unit will do all the ditching and build the necessary dikes.

The pump project was studied and planned by Mr. Robert Armstrong, Superintendent of the East Middlesex Mosquito Control Project, Mr. Ashley Robinson, City Engineer, and Harlan Kingsbury, Chief Sanitary Inspector.

Last year Newton through its Health Department, joined the East Middlesex Mosquito Control Project along with Arlington, Belmont, Cambridge, Lexington, Waltham, Watertown, Wellesley and Weston. Although a complete program did not get under way, very good results were obtained. All of Newton's breeding areas were located and mapped. About 50 feet of culverts were laid and approximately 15,000 feet of ditching was done, eliminating and drying up swamp areas. In regions that could not be drained, about 700 gallons of DDT insecticide was used. Airplane spraying was found very effective over large areas.

This year, in addition to the routine spraying and ditching, catch basin spraying is planned. One application will eliminate mosquito breeding in catch basins from five to six weeks. A motor tricycle outfit will be used for this purpose. By this method as many as 500 catch basins can be sprayed in a single day.

cluding the extension of the high level sewer, the extension of the main to Oak Hill and the reconstruction of many of the older trunk lines which have already reached their capacity and their designed period, continued Pratt, as he emphasized the important relation between adequate sewerage installations and the public welfare.

Further needs center around drain construction and the covering of open brooks which today present a health hazard. Pratt added, as he listed other requirements such as those of the library, fire and police departments. He estimated that the city would be called on to invest at least $10,000,000 over the next 15 years for public works items exclusive of the school building program.

In discussing the financing of this new construction, after noting not only that the city had available only $800,000 for purposes for which money could be borrowed within the debt limit, but also that many of the proposed projects are required by present law to be financed within the debt limit, Mr. Pratt suggested petitioning the State Legislature for permission to borrow outside the debt limit for much of the new construction.

Both speakers were well received by an interested and responsive audience and a lively question period followed their presentations.

"The residents of the 14 cities and towns now served by the Metropolitan Transit Authority are entitled to better service. This better service can be furnished by improved transit facilities and legislative authority for such facilities will be requested from time to time. It is the firm intention of the Trustees to provide the best service to the public that is possible."

MRS. HELMUT FREUND

Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Freund To Arrive In New York Saturday

Rev. and Mrs. Drake are leaving for New York Friday to meet their daughter and son-in-law who will return to Newton with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Freund were married on March 20 at a civil ceremony performed at the city hall in Frankfurt by the burgomaster and on April 3, a second ceremony was performed by a United States Army Chaplain in the Emmaus Protestant Episcopal Church in Frankfurt.

Notables

School at Boston University for 10 years, Dr. LeSourd is now Dean of the School of Public Relations there.

Leonard, their son, was a flier in World War II. Now associate editor of "Guideposts" Len specializes in interviews with such famous people as Mary Pickford, Ingrid Bergman, Harold Russell and Louis Bromfield. "Guideposts" is a non-sectarian publication in Pawling, N. Y., edited by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and Mrs. Fulton Oursler.

Patricia, the LeSourd's only daughter, is also showing a literary bent. A former student at Newton High and at Emma Willard, she is now in the sophomore class at Ohio Wesleyan.

"But frankly, I dislike writing," Mrs. LeSourd admits. "If I have an article to do, I prefer to make a lemon pie which I consider another work of art."

Nevertheless, Mrs. LeSourd uses a secretary for the voluminous correspondence connected with the offices she has held. For 10 years she was student secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society; for 4 years president of the New England Woman's Society of Christian Service; a delegate to the Uniting Conference of the Methodist church in 1939; president of the Board of Trustees of Wesley Foundation at Harvard University; chairman of the Massachusetts State Mothers' Committee in 1947; member of E. O. Kappa Gamma sorority, Boston University Women's council, League of Women Voters, A.A.U.W., Ohio Wesleyan club and the Newton Community club.

Serving as Grand Sponsor for the Methodist Girls' club, Kappa Phi has been a major interest. This began 25 years ago when Dr. LeSourd was a student pastor at Ohio State. Today there are 35 chapters of Kappa Phi in various universities. Their slogan is "Every Methodist University woman of today a leader in the church of tomorrow." Mrs. LeSourd helps the girls develop in many ways. For example, their "Charm School" irons out problems of entertaining. This club is having its biennial convention at Wellesley college on June 29. Its scintillating program is a tribute to Mrs. LeSourd!

Currently, Mrs. LeSourd is delegate for the third time to Quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist church. This is the highest honor the Methodist church can pay a woman.

During this conference she is having a luncheon for 200 women. But for one who "loves to cook" such a party will be no trouble.

You see, Mrs. LeSourd has worked out company menus for both unexpected and intended guests. Her methods are worth hearing! It never takes her more than 20 to 30 minutes to get dinner on the table.
